SEARCHLIGHT ON PANAMA BAY

Insurgent Steamer Attacks Government Ship at Close Quarters.

PANAMA GOVERNOR KILLED

At Colombia's Legation Great Regret is Expressed Over the Loss of General Alban.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Only meager ideas is of the fighting between the forces of the Colombian government and those of the insurgents in Panama bay were received in official circles today.

The state department has received the following cablegram from Consul General Gudger, dated Panama, today:

"Fighting in bay. Governor killed. Excitement great."

The secretary of the navy has received the following cablegram from Captain Mead, commander of the United States battleship Wisconsin at Panama today:

"The insurgent steamer Padilla attacked the Lautaro yesterday morning at close quarters. Crew has deserted her. Is now on fire and sinking."

Up to 10 o'clock no additional advices had come either to the department or to Dr. Silva, Colombia's representative at this capital.

The officials of the state and navy departments are watching the outcome of the contest with much interest. It is believed that fuller reports will be received tomorrow morning.

At the Colombian legation great regret is expressed by the officials at the death of General Alban, governor of Panama. He has proved a very successful officer and in the recent operations incident to the capture and surrender of Colon by the rebels he has played a conspicuous part. He was about 50 years of age and a man of brilliant attainments. Formerly he had been attorney-general of Colombia.

ANXIOUS TO AVENGE THE DEATH OF GENERAL ALBAN

By Associated Press.

Panama, Jan. 20.—General Carlos Alban, the military commander of this district and the governor of Panama, was killed during the fighting this morning. His death is deeply deplored, for General Alban was loved by his soldiers and enjoyed the esteem of the community.

It is asserted that the death of the Colombian leader may have the effect of bringing to the government side large numbers of men anxious to avenge his loss.

Some of the men killed on board the insurgent ship Lautaro have been brought ashore, where they are being buried.

Fire broke out on the Lautaro and later the crew of the Philadelphia went to her assistance and attempted to put out the fire. While they were thus engaged the Lautaro sank. It is reported here that the Lautaro crew rebelled and that the firing of the vessel was an act of treason.

Their revolutionary gunboat Padilla surprised the Lautaro at the opening of the fight this morning and began shooting at close range. Many men on board the Lautaro were killed. The revolutionary gunboat Darien, as this dispatch was written, is approaching the United States cruiser Philadelphia, in the harbor, probably for the purpose of a conference. The firing has ceased. It is impossible to locate the revolutionary gunboat Bolivar.

The slow movements of the Padilla which are noticeable from the shore, lead to the belief that she has been damaged.

With Antlers Locked Deer Starved to Death

"One of the strangest things that I ever saw happened a short time ago over near Meeker while I was out hunting with a party of friends," said Richard Thompson, of Atchison, at the Plaza last night.

"We had been out scouting and hunting for some time, just stalking across the country for the pure fun of the exercise. The game we had captured was nothing to that which escaped us, but that is another story. Coming along the river valley one morning, just as we were on our way back to civilization, we saw what appeared to be two big deer, lying close together away up on a bluff that was along the side of the road. Upon coming closer we found that there really were two deer. Naturally, we got out of the wagon and made an examination. There they were—two large bucks, their immense antlers closely locked together, and from appearances, the animals had died but a short time ago, perhaps two days or so.

"We judged that the animals had become so closely locked together that the unfortunate animals had just starved to death. We tried every way possible to unlock them, but finally gave it up, and had to saw them apart. I am taking one pair back with me, for while they will have to be set together, they are the finest pair of antlers that I have ever seen. The other pair, which is smaller, also had to be cut. I never saw such a puzzle of horns. How they ever got them so tangled up I do not know. We worked several hours, but all to no purpose. It must have been a great battle, for both were large animals, and they must have put up a good fight before lying down to die."

Mr. Thompson is well known here and in Cripple Creek, having considerable property in mines in Cripple Creek. He was at one time county attorney at Atchison.

Mysterious Fire Damages Storehouse

Fire, the origin of which is a mystery, practically destroyed a two-story frame structure used as a storehouse by the car inspector of the Rio Grande railroad shortly after six o'clock last night. The burned building was situated along the west side of the Rio Grande tracks opposite the freight depot.

R. S. Osborne, the car inspector for the Rio Grande said last night that he could not understand what caused the fire. He said there was no fire of any kind in the building, which was used as a storehouse for illuminating oil and tools of various kinds. The flames were discovered by some of the railroad employes, and an alarm was turned in from a nearby box, summoning the Central and West Side companies, both of which responded quickly. The fire was burning fiercely when the firemen reached the place, but was soon extinguished.

When the fire was about under control some one turned in a second alarm and the North End company made a fast run to the scene.

BILL TO REDUCE WAR REVENUE TAX

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 20.—The Republican members of the ways and means committee today decided to begin the consideration of the bill reducing the war revenue taxes and after a conference attended by all of the Republican members of the committee Chairman Payne gave out the following statement:

"The Republican members of the committee on ways and means met today and have taken up the subject of the war revenue. They decided to have a hearing before the full committee on Monday, the 27th instant, on the question respecting the duty on tea and the war revenue tax on beer. They will hear the people interested in the subject of the duty on tea at 10 o'clock in the morning and those interested in the taxation on beer at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. There will be no further hearings."

Some significance was attached to the restriction of the hearing to tea and beer, but it was explained that these were the only interests which had asked for hearings. The desire of the beer interests is to take off 60 cents from the $1.60 per barrel now levied on beer, thus bringing the rate to $1, where it stood before the Spanish war. The total reduction in revenues on this item would be $24,000,000. The reduction on tea will aggregate about $8,000,000.

OIL WELL MACHINERY.

Special to the Gazette.

Florence, Jan. 20.—A local oil well supply house today shipped three complete outfits of oil well drilling machinery to the Consolidated Oil company of Boulder. An order was also received for 12 more complete outfits for the same company which intends at once to drill 18 or 20 wells in the Boulder fields.

A carload of tools was shipped to the Archuleta Oil company which attained a depth of 1,200 feet, with its first near Edith.

Two more complete outfits have been ordered by Grand Junction people who are organizing to drill for oil near Delaque.

FRENCH PRIEST KILLED.

By Associated Press.

Peking, Jan. 20.—A French priest named Julienne and two Chinese converts have been murdered at a village in the north of Wang-si province. Chinese officials assert that the murders were committed by robbers and were not a result of an anti-Christian demonstration.

NEWS NOTES FROM VICTOR

Successes Last Night of the Men who Rescued Girls from Fire.

Victor Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Victor, Jan. 20.—The bloodhounds of the state penitentiary at Canon City which were brought here this morning to run down the two men who last night robbed George Gill's trunk in the boarding house below the Independence mine of $5,250 in bills and checks, met with about the same success as they did in their attempt to track the murderer of Martin Gleason. The older of the two dogs was used today. The dog was taken this morning to the boarding house where the robbery took place. A coupling pin left by the burglar upon the bed in the room where the trunk was located gave the dog a scent. The coupling pin which would probably have been used as a weapon by the burglar in case of a surprise, had been brought to the house and handled by the criminal. The dog took the scent which appeared to be a strong one, and with his head close to the ground made straight for a cabin in the town of Independence fully two miles from the scene of the burglary. The trail led up Battle mountain past the Taylor & Brunton and the Eagle samplers, and along by the Last Dollar mine to the cabin near the Hull City placer in Independence. At the cabin the dog stoped. The scent appearing to go no further. Chief of Police O'Connell of this city and Sheriff Robertson were with the dog. They found the cabin empty, but upon inquiry learned that a miner employed at the Independence Consolidated company's property lives in it. This man was found, but proved by men whom the officers think reliable, that he was in his cabin with friends from 7 o'clock until late last night. The robbery took place shortly after 7 o'clock. The officers considered the alibi a good one and the dog was taken back to the boarding house. The dog went over the ground in the same manner three times, but each time lost the scent at the cabin of the miner. The officers are convinced that the dog has the right trail as far as he went, and are now working upon the trail from that point. No arrests have yet been made.

Gus Peterson, one of the men who met his death in the carbonic acid gas of the May B. Friday morning, will be buried tomorrow, Tuesday, afternoon at 2 o'clock at Sunnyside cemetery. The funeral services will be held at the undertaking parlor of T. D. Dunn & Co. The body of John Warner, the other victim, was shipped to Leavenworth, Kas., Saturday night.

H. H. Heiner, city editor of the Times, left this morning for Denver with a woman whom he has been introducing to Victor people as his wife. Later another woman who claims to be the real wife of Mr. Heiner swore out a warrant in Justice Kavanagh's court for her husband's arrest. She states that she followed Mr. Heiner and the other woman from Ouray, Colo., to Texas and then to this city. Wife No. 1 will allow the officers to do the chasing for her wayward husband from now on.

John Ryan, a miner employed at the Independence mine, who lives at No. 120 Serene street, was found in an unconscious condition in the Bank block yesterday afternoon. It is thought that he met with an accident, but Dr. Chamberlain states that Ryan is suffering from heart failure. He was taken to the Sisters' hospital at Cripple Creek. The family of Mr. Ryan is in California.

Miss Fern Mitchell, who is a student at Colorado college in Colorado Springs, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mitchell, on Spicer avenue. She was accompanied here by her cousin Charles Bishop, who as also a student at the Springs.

C. E. Cooper is in Denver on a short business trip.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Cheney of Monte Vista, who have been visiting in Victor for the past week, left for their home today.

SOCIETY.

Special to the Gazette.

Goldfield, Jan. 20.—On Wednesday night Goldfield lodge No. 124, will tender a complimentary banquet to D. N. Ackerman, grand master, of Aspen. Covers will be laid for 50 at Brown's Virginia house and the banquet which gives promise of being the most elaborate yet given in Goldfield, will commence at 10 p. m. M. W. J. Wills of this city will be toastmaster. The presiding officers of the various secret orders of the city have been invited. Addresses will be made by the guests of honor Noble Grand George Morrison, T. E. Scowe of the Rebeccas, Rev. Auman and others.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Pomel, the young wife of Leon Pomel was held yesterday afternoon from St. Joseph's Catholic church. The services were conducted by Rev. Father Parr, and the interment was at Sunnyside cemetery. The Daughters of Pocahontas of which the deceased was a member, followed the body to the grave. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

A grand ball will be given at Clark's opera house on Friday evening, January 24, to celebrate the 143d anniversary of Robert Burns, the Scotch bard. The grand march will take place at 8 o'clock.

Tonight at the Presbyterian church a rainbow social was given. There was a good attendance and a neat sum was raised for the church.

Thomas Thorpe and Charles Smith have finished the stone work contracted on the new Taylor & Brunton sampler in the north end of the town and the carpenters are now engaged on the framework.

J. A. Vincent, an old time resident of Goldfield was in the city yesterday from Colorado City, on business.

DR. PEEK MAN BEWITCHED

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, Jan. 20.—William H. Peek, a mining man from Cripple Creek, now on duty in the Columbia house last evening. The odor of the escaping gas was detected and he was rescued, but soon after he became unconscious. He says he knew better, but did it during a temporary spell of somnambulismness.

Fair today and tomorrow, easterly winds.

Silver, 59c; lead, $4; copper, 16c.

New York stocks closed generally lower, but not at the lowest point of the session; money on call steady at 3½ per cent.

Chicago grain and provisions broke badly all around; wheat lost 1½c, corn 3c and oats ½c; provisions from 10c to 25c lower.

STEINMETZ WANTS A CLEAR RECORD

Former Treasurer of El Paso County Demands That Records of the Office Be Cleared of Charge Against Him.

Former County Treasurer Frank J. Steinmetz appeared before the board of county commissioners yesterday and demanded that action be taken by the board to clear the record of the treasurer's office of an entry that appears on the books as a charge against himself. He claimed that it is there unjustly and that it is not warranted by the records of the commissioners' office bearing upon the same.

The charge on the books and the demand by Mr. Steinmetz grew out of the county election of 1897 and the election contest in the courts that resulted therefrom. The election resulted in a contest between W. E. Rohde, Fusion candidate for treasurer, and F. J. Steinmetz, Republican candidate, the latter having received a certificate of election and refusing to give up the office in January, 1898, when the change of administration resulting from the 1897 election took place. In July, 1898, the contest suit brought by Mr. Rohde that had then been through the county and state courts resulted in a victory for the contestor. The decision was announced on the 26th of the month and the office was turned over by Mr. Steinmetz to Mr. Rohde on August 1 following.

During the seven months that Mr. Steinmetz had held the office in 1898 he had drawn the salary due the county treasurer. Upon assuming the office August 1 Mr. Rohde demanded this money and the county commissioners being called upon to decide the question decided that Mr. Steinmetz was entitled to the salary for the first six months, but not for the seventh month. Mr. Rhode, notwithstanding this decision of the board, appropriated to himself the $2,255.33 drawn by Mr. Steinmetz and charged Mr. Steinmetz up on the books of the office with this amount, this charge being still on the books and having been published in each semi-annual statement since that time as a charge against Mr. Steinmetz.

Mr. Steinmetz stated yesterday to the board that he wanted the record cleared in order that there might be no more semi-annual statements published showing him to be a debtor to the county when he is not justly such. He intimated that if the record could be cleared in regard to the six months' salary which the action of the former board allowed him, he would pay back the money that he had drawn during the seventh month. He demands that the treasurer, Mr. Pollen, be instructed to place this charge against Mr. Rohde instead of allowing it to stand against Mr. Steinmetz.

The board agreed to take the matter up with County Attorney Chambers at once and to dispose of it as soon as possible.

CASHIER CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

By Associated Press.

Helena, Mont., Jan. 20.—Herbert H. Matteson, cashier of the First National bank of Great Falls, was arrested in Helena today by Deputy United States Marshal Charles F. Gage, for embezzlement.

In the complaint, which was sworn to by United States District Attorney W. B. Rogers, Matteson is charged with having embezzled, January 15, $25,000 from the First National bank of Great Falls. Matteson's defalcation was discovered by a bank examiner recently while inspecting his books. Last night Matteson was called before the bank examiner and Gold T. Curtis, president of the bank, and accused of the crime. Sheriff Benner arrived at Helena this afternoon. Matteson has a hearing before a United States commissioner and was held in $5,000 bond by the court which has not yet been furnished. It is said the total of the embezzlement will reach almost $100,000.

Matteson's downfall is said to be due to speculation. He had been cashier of the First National bank at Great Falls a number of years. He was a trusted official and stood high in business and social circles. He was elected secretary of the Montana State Fair commission, but recently resigned. He was a member of the State Tennis association and had played in tournaments at Helena and elsewhere. He is married, has a wife and child.

SEVERE SNOW STORM IN KANSAS

By Associated Press.

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 20.—Snow, ranging in depth from three to eight inches covers Kansas tonight. It is still falling and by morning it will be as heavy snow as has fallen in Kansas for several winters. The storm started in the west last night and by 5 o'clock this morning had reached the eastern border of the state. It is snowing harder in the north part of the state tonight than in any other part and extends as far north as Fairbury, Neb.

Practically no wind accompanied the snow and the temperature has been moderate all day. No drifts have resulted, but the snow is wet and packs down solidly.

The beneficial effect of the snow upon the wheat is incalculable. Wheat was beginning to show the effects of the dry weather. While at no time in any danger, it needed moisture and now it has moisture in great abundance. The snow could not have come at a more opportune time for benefiting wheat.

No damage to stock is reported.

TWO KILLED IN EXPLOSION AT PUEBLO

By Associated Press.

Pueblo, Jan. 20.—A special from Walsenburg, Huerfano county, to the Chieftain, says:

Three men killed and three others badly burned is the result of a serious explosion which occurred at 8 o'clock this morning in one of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company's properties at Pictou, three miles from here.

Among the killed are Jackson, a colored laborer, and Frank Marvis. Phipps, a brother of the superintendent of the mine was one of those badly burned. Coroner Omquist left immediately for the scene and took charge of the bodies. Marvis' body will be brought here for burial and all the funerals will be held tomorrow.

Reports sent out from here earlier in the day were somewhat exaggerated and stated that six men had been killed and 10 or 20 more wounded. The fire in the mine has been extinguished and the company's property was not extensively damaged.

TWO NEGROES CAUSE MISCHIEF

Special to the Gazette.

Leadville, Jan. 20.—About 1:30 this morning the Leadville fire department was summoned to the property of the Phoenix Mining company, known as the Sixth Street shaft, which was already in flames. After several hours' hard work, the firemen succeeded in obtaining control over the blaze but not until the shaft house had been entirely destroyed and much damage done to the engine house and machinery. The origin of the fire has not yet been ascertained. The engineer states that he left the fire banked as usual when the shift came off at 1 o'clock. No watchman was employed. Owing to the strong wind which was blowing at the time of the fire grave fears were entertained for the safety of the surrounding buildings, as the mine was between the dwelling portion of the city. However, the flames were confined to spread. During the night no fire occurred which may have been caused by incendiaries. Captain Marshal of the fire department discovered a suspicious character in the vicinity of the burning property and [illegible]

GOVERNOR ORMAN DEFENDS THE WORDING OF HIS CALL

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, Jan. 20.—Governor Orman does not seem to be much concerned over the criticisms that are being hurled at him because of the way he worded his extra session call. The criticisms are to the effect that the call is not specific and that therefore about one-half of the subjects named cannot be treated. Governor Orman is of the opinion that his critics have not read the supreme court decision on this same phase of the question. If they had their criticisms would be fewer. The attacks are based on article 4, section 9 of the constitution, which is as follows: "The governor may, on extraordinary occasions, convene the general assembly, by proclamation, stating therein the purpose for which it is to assemble; but at such special sessions no business shall be transacted other than that specially named in the proclamation. He may, by special proclamation, convene the senate in extraordinary session for the transaction of executive business."

In an extra session call issued by Governor Waite, he referred to the attachment laws of the state, designating the 10th, 11th and 13th causes of attachment. These causes have reference only to courts of record. When the legislature convened it enacted a law referring to the 7th, 8th and 10th causes of attachment, which three referred only to the justice courts. The law was attacked on the ground that the governor's call did not specify the latter causes. The case was carried to the supreme court where a decision was rendered. The decision was written by Justice Elliott, and it held that the law was valid. Page 240 of the house journal of that session gives the opinion. It is in part as follows: "The governor is required to state in his proclamation the purpose for which the legislature is to assemble in special session, and it is provided that at such sessions no business shall be transacted other than that specially named in the proclamation. The governor is thus invested with extraordinary powers. He alone is to determine when there is an extraordinary occasion for convening the legislature, and he alone can designate the business which the legislature is to transact when thus convened. Thus far there can be no question as to the meaning of section 9, but must we go farther and hold that the governor may prescribe the particular way and manner in which the business he has designated shall be transacted in all its details? If the session be called for legislative purposes, may the governor draft the bills, append them to his proclamation, and require the legislature to pass them as prepared by himself, or not legislate at all? In certain contingency the general assembly may be convened in special session for the purpose of electing a United States senator. Will it be contended that the person to be elected may be specially named in the proclamation and that no other person than the one thus named can be elected at such special elections? It is manifest that such a construction would be to destroy legislative independence and convert members of the two houses into mere instruments to register and ratify the executive will—that is, to do the bidding of the governor or not to act at all.

"It is true section 9 requires that the business to be transacted at the special session shall be specially named, but it does not require that such business shall be definitely and particularly described in all its details by executive proclamation. Legislative judgment and discretion as to the transaction of the business specially named are certainly not inhibited at special sessions. The legislature cannot go beyond the business specially named in the proclamation, nor can the legislature upon business not named in the proclamation, but within limits of such business it may act freely in whole or in part, or not at all, as may be deemed expedient according to its own judgment. The legislature must consult the rights of legislating by the representatives of a free people at a special session are destroyed and all our ideas of such rights are rendered obsolete."

It is upon this decision that Governor Orman has founded his call. This language throws down the bars to a world of legislation is admitted by all. Subject 3, which reads: "To enact any and all legislation relating to or in any wise affecting corporations, both foreign and domestic of a quasi public nature," is in reference to a railroad commission, but bills relating to all classes of corporations could be introduced under its reading.

Already a number of persons have made applications for positions. The average political job hunter seems to feel that the governor has the disposition of the offices; at least, Governor Orman was besieged by a motley mass of would-be position aspirants today. The governor referred all callers for positions to the mercy of the legislators.

CRIPPLE CREEK WANTS THE REVENUE BILL CONSIDERED

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Jan. 20.—Speaking of the coming extra session of the legislature, Col. B. F. Montgomery, speaker of the house, said today that in his opinion the house could transact the business before it and adjourn within 15 or 20 days from the time that body convened. He was not so sure of the senate, however.

"I want the revenue bill to be passed practically as it now stands," said Mr. Montgomery. "In regard to the Buckling bill I cannot say how I shall vote until I have heard the debates and the time comes to vote. Some of the objections to this measure should be met."

COMMERCE DEPARTMENT DISCUSSED BY SENATE

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Debate on the Philippine tariff bill will begin in the senate tomorrow. On behalf of the majority of the committee on the Philippines, Chairman Lodge today reported the measure and gave notice that he would call it up at 2 o'clock tomorrow. Mr. Rawlins of Utah, acting for the minority of the committee, offered a substitute for the bill of the majority and announced that he would submit some remarks on it at the conclusion of Mr. Lodge's statement in support of the majority report.

The Democratic members of the commerce committee were given permission to file a minority report on the shipping bill.

The bill providing for the establishment of a department of commerce was then called up by Mr. Nelson (Minn.) who replied to the criticisms which had been made of the bill, particularly to those which related to transfer of bureaus from other departments to the proposed department.

The departments principally affected by the measure were those of the treasury and the interior. The former, he said, had on its rolls 5,475 employes in Washington and the latter 4,881, each having a greater number of employes than all the other departments combined.

Many of the bureaus of the treasury and interior departments, he said, really had no relevancy to the general purpose of those departments.

Mr. Platt (Conn.) supported the pending measure as a whole but offered an amendment striking from the bill the proposition to transfer the patent office. It was accepted by Mr. Nelson and agreed to by the senate.

During consideration of the bill the president's message transmitting the supplemental report of the Isthmian commission was received and referred to the commission on interoceanic canals.

An amendment to the department of commerce bill relating to officers in the state department to take the place of the chief of statistical bureau, transferred in the bill, was agreed to.

After a protracted discussion Mr. Nelson requested that a vote on the measure be taken at 2 o'clock tomorrow. Mr. Pettus (Ala.) objected. Mr. Cockrell (Mo.) offered an amendment which was accepted eliminating from the bill the proposition to transfer to the new department the census office.

Mr. Quarles (Wis.) made an argument in support of placing the census office under the proposed department and gave notice that he would move a reconsideration of the vote by which Mr. Cockrell's amendment was adopted.

Mr. Allison made an extended speech relating principally with the formation under the department of commerce of a great bureau of statistics, as had been suggested by Mr. Quarles.

The bill then was laid aside and the senate, on motion of Mr. Teller, went into executive session and at 5:45 adjourned.

STANDARD OIL DROPPED.

By Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 20.—Standard Oil sold in the outside market this morning at 676 a break of 20 points from Saturday on large offerings. The price then rallied and sales were made at 686 with bk. at 685.23.

[illegible] GOOD WORK ON MOON ANCHOR.

The Moon-Anchor, a few years ago the heaviest producer in the west end of the camp, is now producing about 250 tons a month as the result of careful prospecting in lower levels by lessees and the company. The ore is coming chiefly from the sixth, seventh and eighth levels and runs from 450 to 250 a ton. There are nine sets of lessees at work. All of these lessees are saving more or less ore. The company furnishes the hoisting power, tools and explosives and maintains a blacksmith shop. In return, a royalty of 50 per cent, is exacted on the net proceeds of all ores marketed.

It was from the fourth and fifth levels that the Moon-Anchor made its great output, but the values seemingly disappeared below that level. In the drifts which are now being thoroughly prospected, a number of small ore shoots are now being opened at intervals along the dike and in all parts of it. So far none has been discovered longer than 40 feet by two or three feet wide, and possibly none but lessees working under such favorable conditions would have found them. These new discoveries have been made in the last month or two, and the showing is now such as to warrant the management in believing that the mine will shortly be back with the leading shippers of the camp.

The Moon-Anchor has always borne a good reputation for ore, but this winter the mine [illegible] have shifted here as elsewhere in the camp, and a winze is now being sunk from the eighth to the ninth levels for ventilation purposes.

RECENT SHIPMENTS AND RETURNS FROM WORKINGS.

W. H. Parkinson, who is working the Triumph, on Battle mountain, is sinking a winze at the 300-foot level, on a fine body of high grade ore. At a depth of 35 feet the entire bottom of the winze is in rock that assays from five to as high as 10 ounces. Returns were received yesterday from a carload shipment that went close to $120 a ton.

A trial shipment was sent out from the Ophelia tunnel level workings of the Alaska property yesterday. The ore is coming from a winze sunk 100 feet below the tunnel level. Some high assays have been received on this ore, and the returns will be watched with interest.

Potvin and Vaine, leasing on the Christmas on Bull hill, made a 50-ton shipment today from their south east. Lowry and associates, leasing on the north end of the ground, also made a shipment of 20 tons. The average grade of the ores is about two ounces.

The El Paso, on the west slope of Beacon hill, is making steady shipments of probably the highest grade ore of any mine in the entire district. The greater portion of it is coming from the bottom or 600-foot level.

INSURED.

YOU insure your house against fire. You know what people would say if it burned down without insurance. They would say you were wanting in business sagacity, that you should have provided for this. Now leave house insurance and consider clothing insurance. Here the danger is even greater—not from fire, but from the chemicals and strong soaps used in the laundry. Wise women insure their finer, more delicate and perishable things against this risk, and the premium they pay is the trifling cost of Ivory Soap. That guarantees protection.

CRIPPLE CREEK NEWS NOTES

Cheaper Stocks Are Still Below Par—Mining Exchange Directors.

Cripple Creek Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Cripple Creek, Jan. 20.—James E. Kearns and Michael J. Kearns are still in the county jail, held by Sheriff Robertson, suspected of being implicated in the murder of Martin Gleason. The former of the two men was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Meany on January 11 and the latter by Sheriff Robertson on January 13. Both men profess ignorance of any knowledge of the crime for which they are held. Their attorney, J. J. McFeely, on Wednesday, the 16th of this month, petitioned the district court for a writ of habeas corpus. The writ was issued by Judge Seeds and made returnable on the 18th, but on that day the hearing was postponed until tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Tonight the hearing was again postponed until tomorrow. Mrs. James E. Kearns was present in the district court tonight thinking that the hearing would take place. She states that her husband formerly worked at the Wild Horse mine under the late Superintendent Martin Gleason, and further that her husband and the deceased were the best of friends. She stated, however, that the men had trouble at Robinson, Colo., five years ago, but at the time both men were intoxicated and that they were good friends next day and have been ever since. Attorney McFeely considers that the holding of the Kearns brothers is an outrage. The murder was committed about 1 o'clock on the afternoon of December 26 last, and Mr. McFeely states that he can account for every minute spent by both men between the hours of 12 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the murder, and prove by competent witnesses that the two men were not within five miles of the Kalamazoo shaft house when the murder was committed.

The case of Frank P. Andrews vs. the Detroit Reduction company was filed in the district court today. The plaintiff sues to recover $18,000 alleged to be due for money loaned to the defendant company. Later a stipulation was filed and a decree issued by the court giving the plaintiff judgment for the full amount. There are no other creditors against the defendant company and the judgment was taken in place of a chattel mortgage upon the plant near Independence.

Catherine Fitzgerald commenced suit in the county court today for a divorce from Charles Fitzgerald upon the grounds of non-support, cruelty, etc. The couple were married in this city on December 25, 1896. Judge Frost ordered the defendant to pay into court $7 per week for the support of the plaintiff and $5 advance costs.

In the county court Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Bullock of Anaconda adopted five-year-old Herschel E. Hazelbaker, a bright little boy whose father is dead and whose mother was not able to support the child.

Marriage licenses were issued by the county clerk today as follows: H. R. Hoyt, aged 25 years, and Ona D. Hunt, aged 22, both of Victor; Victor Fleetwood, aged 35 years, of Altman, and Emma Hecks, aged 22 years, of Cripple Creek, and to William Klijmet, aged 29 years, of Goldfield, and Ethel Barrett, aged 21 years, of Cripple Creek.

The nominating committee of the Cripple Creek Mining Exchange association has placed in nomination the following list of members as suitable for the directors for the ensuing year: H. E. Shepherd, W. M. Broyles, Edward Bell, E. R. Merritt, C. N. Miller, A. J. Arnold, W. W. Kirby, F. P. Smonton, J. P. Nordamm, J. M. Slusher, J. S. Lawrence, C. S. Fleicher, W. A. Delany, E. H. Newlind, W. L. Stone, F. E. Townsend, Albert Wagner, G. J. Smith and S. Harrington. The annual election will be held the 27th day of February, at which time nine directors will be elected from those mentioned above. The directors will elect officers the following Monday.

A certificate showing the dismissal of the suit brought by Jennie M. Mead, W. J. Mead and William Hartman against V. S. Stratton, George L. Baxter and Beatrice Steadman was filed with the county clerk today. The suit was an adverse between the Croesus and the Smuggler No. 2 lode claims.

Among the deeds filed for record today with the county clerk were the following: The Cameron M. L. & T. company to Lucy Gleason, lots 14, the west half of 13 and the east half of 15, in block 1, Cameron, $15,000; J. D. Murphy to L. J. Ponte the Swan lode claim, $200.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Trout died at noon today of pneumonia at the family residence in Elkton. Funeral services will be held at Lampman's undertaking parlor in this city tomorrow, Tuesday, afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The funeral of Cheo Morilla, who was killed in the Pinnacle shaft on Saturday morning by drilling into a missed shot, will take place at the Catholic church in this city tomorrow, Tuesday, morning at 10 o'clock. The interment will be at Mt. Pisgah cemetery.

Out-of-town arrivals at the National hotel today were: C. H. Dudley and O. B. Wilcox of Colorado Springs; A. M. Johnson, W. R. Willis, D. A. Clithers, Charles F. Potter and H. F. Kreuger of Denver; J. W. Adams and D. S. Plume of Detroit; A. F. Hill of St. Louis; James F. Smith of Pittsburg; J. B. Glasser of Montour, and J. F. Maynard of Utica, N. Y.

TRINIDAD

(Special Correspondence.)

Trinidad, Jan. 19.—The new board of county commissioners organized this week. S. Gregory was re-elected chairman and A. P. Anderson was re-elected county attorney. Dr. S. L. Blair was elected county physician to succeed Dr. Carmichael. Dave Eckhart was retained as clerk of the board.

All of the county officers except the assessor went through the formality of turning over their offices to themselves as their own successors.

Few changes were made in clerkships. Judge Lindsey reappointed his son Malcolm as clerk of the county court.

John Douthit reappointed his daughter as deputy superintendent of schools and O. T. Clark reappointed his son, O. T. Jr., as under sheriff. J. H. Roberts will remain as county county treasurer. It is understood that Max Tofoya will soon be transferred from the clerk's office to the treasurer's office and Vidal Shoble has been transferred from the assessor's office to the treasurer's office. Urbano Vigil has appointed his son Manuel Urbano as his county on the principle that if a public office is a family snap he might as well put his family in. Heretofore Mr. Vigil has refrained from appointing relatives.

Eugene Garcia is now holding down two jobs, one as assessor at $2,800 per year and one as clerk in the treasurer's office at $75 per month. Gene has not yet named his deputy, but if he should decide not to hold the job himself, it is thought that he will be able to find some one of his relatives who could be induced to take the place.

District court has been in session this week with some of the leading lawyers of the state in attendance. Several criminal cases have been disposed of with only one acquittal thus far. The most prominent case was the Forsyth libel case, the jury rendering a verdict of guilty after 30 minutes deliberation. Forsyth formerly published a small paper here called "Chips" in which he published an article derogatory to the character of Walter Bancroft a prominent young business and society man. Bancroft made the complaint against him. Forsyth gets little sympathy from the people.

The monthly report of the police magistrate shows $17 in "special" fines collected for December with enough other fines to make the total $420.

A moral wave has struck the gamblers of Trinidad. About 10 days ago, very suddenly and without notice every gambling house close and from the smallest to the highest not a game has been running since, except the slot machines. Much speculation has been indulged in as to the cause of the move which is not understood. No orders had been given from police headquarters nor the district attorney's office and there was no reason to expect the calling of a grand jury at this term of court. But whatever the cause, Trinidad, which has always been a wide open town is now as tight as a drum.

No one knows how long the present situation will continue but it suits the legitimate business men who if they would organize could enforce the continued suppression of gambling.

F. D. Goodal who has been editor of The Advertiser for several years has sold his interest in the paper to his partners G. E. Hosner and A. F. Lobenbes and retires from his position. He has purchased the Littlefield book store.

No more board sidewalks will be laid in the city limits according to a resolution of the city council.

Marriage licenses have been issued to the following: Miss Ella Jupp and Louis D. Gump on January 22.

The Schneider Brewing company has completed a large ice house at the city water works reservoir where they have purchased the ice privileges for the season.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church gave a farewell reception at the old church Thursday evening. An excellent supper was served and a delightful program was rendered. Addresses were made by A. C. McChesney, O. L. Davis and C. F. Nichols. The church was organized in 1874 with 12 members and now has over 200 members. The old buildings will be removed next week and work will be begun at once on the new church building which will cost $10,000.

A city service examination will be held at the postoffice February 5 for the positions of clerk and carrier.

NEWS NOTES FROM PUEBLO

Rio Grande May Lay Broad Gauge to Cripple Creek Shortly.

Pueblo Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Pueblo, Jan. 20.—Manager J. M. Herbert and a party of Rio Grande officials and friends have returned from a 10-day trip of inspection over the narrow gauge division of that system. At the Union depot they left the narrow gauge special in which they had been travelling and proceeded to Denver in Mr. Herbert's private car which was in waiting. While Manager Herbert did not discuss the object of the trip beyond the fact that it was one of general inspection and that everything was found satisfactory, it was strongly intimated by one of the party that in the extensive improvements proposed this year for the D. & R. G. railroad will be the broad gauging of a large part of the present narrow gauge system. For seven years past the increased business of the line crossing the southwestern part of the state has demanded that the road be broad gauge. It is reported in railroad circles here that J. M. Johnson has been appointed superintendent of the construction, and will immediately begin work widening the track between Grand Junction and Montrose. This, while unofficially announced, is understood to be the beginning of plans of broad gauging the road to Ouray, Telluride and Durango. While the route will be slightly longer than by the narrow gauge road over Marshall pass, mileage is not so great a factor as convenience in modern mountain railroading. There is no doubt that the plans of the company contemplate the erection of a branch to reach the rich fruit, agricultural and stock raising section along the north fork of the Gunnison. A corps of Rio Grande engineers have been engaged for some time in making a survey, the large part of which follows the original survey in that section made several years ago and shown on published maps as lines to be added to the system. Graders have reached Dexter, the point where the branch is diverted from the main line to build spurs and switch tracks that will be needed for setting building material, and it is reported on good authority that work will be commenced in February on that line. It is a significant fact that large orders have recently been placed for construction material, and it is all for broad gauge tracks. This means addition to the mileage of the standard gauge road and that the present narrow gauge equipments will be used in increasing the service on the remaining lines of that gauge. Mr. Herbert and party were in the best of health.

John E. Holden, 19 years old, the son of John O. Holden, of 1601 Eighteenth street, was perhaps fatally injured while attempting to board a train on the Santa Fe bridge over the river. Holden is employed as a switchman here by the Santa Fe, but was off duty yesterday and, with Claud Corrigan, had started to the Union depot. While they were crossing the bridge, passenger train No. 908, from the north, came along and Holden told his companion he would board it and ride over to the depot. He seized the hand rails on one of the coaches and attempted to swing himself upon the step, but lost his footing. For a distance of several feet he pluckily retained his hold upon the hand rails, but finally had to let go and was thrown against a pier and into the river, sustaining serious injuries.

Juan Iael and Willard Dunham, who have been in the Pueblo hospital since last Wednesday, the result of a fight with pistols at Avondale, are reported as getting along well. Dunham's injuries were never considered dangerous, but Iael's chances of recovery were considered doubtful for several days. The physicians now think that he will recover, though it will be a long time before he can leave the hospital.

The January term of the district court opened this morning with Judge Voorhees as the presiding judge for the term. There are a large number of cases, both civil and criminal, on the docket, and the term will probably be a long one. The only murder case on the criminal docket is that of Antonio Papa, charged with the murder of Jose Martinez and J. E. Gonzales, in a dance hall on Salt creek, a few weeks ago. It is thought likely that Papa will be tried some time in February.

At a special meeting of the Rover club directors held yesterday it was decided to have a whist tournament as soon as the different teams can be organized. Duplicate whist, one of the most popular games played by the club members, will be the issue and the crack players are highly interested. Work of selecting the teams will be commenced at once and all wishing to enter are requested to hand in their names to Secretary Osgood at their earliest convenience.

The Secret of Success

In the drug business is to serve your patrons carefully and well. It is especially necessary in this line, because of the absolute accuracy that is required in the compounding of drugs. The services of a physician are costly, and unless you can be sure that prescriptions as to medicine are carried out to the letter it is money thrown away.

Our "examined prescriptions" eliminate all this risk. They are compounded by a pharmacist of long experience, checked and O. K.'d by another equally well qualified, and thus absolute accuracy is assured. Our prescription trade grows daily. Try us.

AMUSEMENTS

A TRIP TO THE CIRCUS.

"A Trip to the Circus" is the title of a new play now being presented in the West. The company travels in its own car and carries a large amount of special scenery, two trained horses, a trick monkey and other paraphernalia. The piece is a New England comedy-drama of thrilling interest ending with a genuine circus performance, introducing trained horses, a trick mule, a Zulu dance and other regular features of the sawdust ring.

The piece has never been produced in the west before. The company numbers over 25 people, including vaudeville and circus artists. It carries its own uniformed band and orchestra.

The story of the play is pathetic and interesting, the comedy element very strong and new, and clever specialties are introduced in every act.

"A Trip to the Circus" appears at the Temple theater tomorrow night. Seats now on sale at Briscoe's book store. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cents.

THE CHICAGO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra will give a grand symphony concert at the Opera house this evening. The orchestra consists of 50 well-known solo artists. The Peoria Herald-Transcript says: "The Chicago Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Adolph Rosenbecker, is a factor not to be forgotten. The work of this organization last night was as near faultless as could be desired." In short, there is no fault to be found with either orchestra or performers, and the entire festival will go down in history as the one success, marking a new era in the civic and artistic history of Peoria.

The first number on the evening's program was Beethoven's overture, Leonore No. 3 in C by the orchestra. To attempt to criticize were superfluous for the reason that the number was rendered admirably. Between the conductor and men the most perfect harmony appears to exist, and the result is at once apparent in their playing. This was especially noticeable in the spirited passages of the overture. They were liberally applauded.

The familiar "Beautiful Blue Danube" waltzes by the orchestra came next and Mussenet's aria from Herodiade, by M. Gautther, succeeded and was the signal for another outburst of applause from the audience. The "Danse Macabre," by Saint-Saens, by the orchestra, was the next number, which was applauded so tumultuously that they were forced to play "Pansies," a delightful little selection, which set the audience off once more, but they were compelled to be satisfied with the duet from Romeo and Juliet, by the two celebrities of the evening.

"THE ELEVENTH HOUR."

Lincoln J. Carter's latest success "The Eleventh Hour" will be the attraction at the Opera house next Saturday evening.

In his latest effort Mr. Carter deals with life in and around Chicago. The theme is the old one of love, hatred and avarice, as most plays are, but he has strayed from the beaten path of fiction and gives a story that we can see is profitable—a fact that does not seem to strike authors frequently. The play is mounted in a gorgeous manner, the last act costing $5,000 to place upon the stage, which can be easily understood when it is explained that it is an exact counterpart of the drawing room of one of the richest men of Chicago. With his consent, photographs were taken, and his artistic work was given full liberty to make a careful study of the original, so that the counterfeit might be as near perfect as possible, and it is without doubt the most expensive stage setting on the road. The company is capable and the entire production will be the same as when first presented in Chicago in Mr. Carter's own theater, "The Criterion," where it won instant success.

THE KING SNAKE CHARMER.

The two programs which Mr. King is to render here January 23 and 27, under the auspices of the college, are so very different that there will doubtless be a very general desire to hear them both. In anticipation of that the price of the course ticket has been put at an unusually low figure. What Mr. King has to say regarding the programs will contribute to the interest in them: "I like to give the Hamlet first because an actor's or a reader's reputation can always be made by that one play. People usually have some standard for it in their own minds, and, besides, one has a so much chance of pleasing the very critics by showing one's grasp of the consistency of the character portrayal."

The second program is arranged to introduce as much of variety and contrast as is possible, with the result, of course, of taxing the reader's powers to the utmost. Henry Austin Claff says: "It was an unusual experience to hear, within the extent of a short third of an hour, the two chief love scenes from 'The Tempest' and 'Romeo and Juliet.' And the event justified the arrangement. It was an enchantment to the spirit of every sensitive listener to note the Miranda and the Perdita of Ferdinand and Romeo, of Miranda and Juliet."

The great scene between Othello and Iago, the third scene of act 3, Mr. King was asked to include because of what Louise Chandler Moulton had said of his interpretation of it: "Your rendering of the Iago seemed to me to make the character more real, even, than has any of the great actors I have seen in the part." Tickets at Hext's and at Coburn library.

The New French Stamps.

The government of this country is literally throwing money away. Yesterday I became for the once an ardent stamp collector, and offered a severe sum for one of the new red penny stamps which are to be issued to the public in a few weeks. The offer was scornfully refused. As Messrs. de la Rue have already printed something like five hundred millions of the new stamp, and are turning them out at the rate of five or six millions a day, while the chancellor of the exchequer is at his wits end for cash, a simple arithmetical calculation will be sufficient to show the criminal folly of failing to realize the stock at present values, instead of waiting for the inevitable slump.

However, although not allowed to purchase, I was permitted to look at a whole sheet of the new stamps, with King Edward's portrait, in a bright ruby carmine ink, repeated two hundred and forty times. The portrait has been executed from a design by Mr. Emil Fuchs, the sculptor, who, it will be remembered, went to Osborne after the death of Queen Victoria to make a cast of her majesty's face. The new stamp shows the profile of the king, who has a dignified, somewhat severe, and stately expression. It is the reigning monarch, and not the "first gentleman in Europe," that is here depicted. The picture is natural, grows on one, and is likely to be popular. The slight redness of the crown of his majesty's head is indicated, and the mustache strongly marked. The features are thrown into strong relief by being inclosed in a deeply shaded oval. The face turns to the left, like that of the late queen in the present stamps. On the contrary it is customary to reverse the profile with each new sovereign; but on the stamp, if the face turned to the right, it would be looking off the letter, stamps being usually placed at the right hand top corner. King Edward is far too courteous to turn his back on the addressee in that way.

On the left side of the oval is a curved branch of bay leaves, with berries. It was assured that the branch was bay—it might have been laurel for any thing I knew. To the right is a branch of oak, the peculiar shape leaves being easily recognized. Above the oval is an imperial crown, surmounted by cross and ball, and on either side of this—forming an arch broken by the crown—are two curved labels, with the words, "Postage and Revenue," in white letters. A straight tablet below the oval shows the value of the stamp, also in white letters. The designs of the sage green halfpenny stamp, the red penny one and the blue twopence halfpenny are the same, except for the values named on the label at the bottom.

The change from the lavender of the present stamp to the red of the new one is to bring this country into line with the other countries of the postal union. The postal convention decided some years ago that green, red and blue should be the color of the three principal stamps in use. England is the last country to conform to the regulation as regards its penny stamp. The corresponding French ten centime stamp, and the German ten pfennig, are red. The Canadian two-cent has been changed from purple to red, and the Indian one anna from plum color to red. The United States have also the regulation colors of green for one cent, red for two cents, and blue for five cents. The blue of the five-cent American stamp is a rich, deep, ultramarine to unlike the turquoise of the French 25 centimes.—London News.

The Independence Oil Company

Stock at Land and Gusher Prices

Incomparably the Best Stock Offering Since Spindle Top Was Discovered!

A GUARANTEED INVESTMENT

1—300,000 barrels of oil already SOLD to companies and individuals believed to be fully able to fulfill their contracts. A large percentage of the oil to be paid for whether taken or not, and one contracting firm announced their readiness to at once begin the construction of storage for 750,000 barrels. The first steamer is announced to leave New York for Port Arthur not later than March 1st.

2—The company OWNS IN FEE SIMPLE one six-inch gusher in block 37, Spindle Top, as good a six-inch well as was ever bored, and the land upon which it is located.

3—The company also OWNS IN FEE SIMPLE a tract of ground 85.22 feet by 30 feet, 1/6 of an acre, in block 32, Spindle Top, surrounded upon every side by gushers. We have here room for FIVE ADDITIONAL GUSHERS, which will be bored as rapidly as may be required to fill our oil contracts.

4—We therefore tap oil fields of Spindle Top—a thing that no other oil company, except the Guffey Co., does—and which GUARANTEES THE INDEPENDENCE an unlimited supply of oil as long as the fields produce, and our faith in its inexhaustible riches is so profound that we cannot question Beaumont wells will flow at least as long as those of Baku, Russia, which after 15 years of production are still spouting oil at a practically undiminished rate and are keeping busy as many as 320 refineries.

5—From the proceeds of our oil sales we fully and confidently expect to begin regular dividends by about the middle of the current year. INDEPENDENCE stock, by reason of its low capital, excellent oil contracts, and active management, we firmly believe is to be by far the BEST INVESTMENT EVER PRESENTED TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE FOR PUBLIC SUBSCRIPTION. As a speculation, it far surpasses in attractiveness, as it will in profits, any industrial stock ever offered in the south.

6—There will be an UNLIMITED MARKET FOR THE STOCK, Independence can be so cheap as well as so high. It will be placed on all the oil exchanges in a few days and the trading in it is certain to advance prices which could not be exceeded by any other Texas oil stock.

The officers and directors of the company are: [illegible] Fagin, president and general manager, also president Fagin Investment company; John R. C. Dunn, vice president and general counsel of S. F. and R. C. Dunn, attorneys for San Antonio system for southeast Texas; Peter Anderson, secretary and treasurer, formerly, for 15 years, cashier of the First National Bank of Wahoo, Neb.; Chas. L. Buckeye, of Buckeye & Co., bankers and brokers, Cincinnati, Ohio; F. G. Kurtzman, the Oliver Kurtzman Co., bankers and brokers, Minneapolis, Minn. PRAISE FOR PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

THE New York Evening Post never was particularly inclined to overpraise Republican officials, and for that reason whenever it has to say anything commendatory of them, it may be relied upon as entirely sincere. Several times recently the Post has taken occasion to express its approval of the way in which the president is carrying the spirit of civil service reform rules into his executive actions, and in a recent number it calls attention to the manner in which he makes fitness, the qualification for office holding in the southern states, and the recognition that this course is earning from Democratic newspapers in that section. The Post says:

President Roosevelt continues to win the highest praise from respectable citizens in the south for his rejection of unfit candidates for federal office who are pushed by the Republican machine of their state, and his insistence upon high-class men, even if he has to go outside of his own party to get them. In pursuance of this policy, he has recently nominated two of the most prominent Democrats for two of the most important positions under the United States government in Mississippi—the district attorney's office and the marshalship. Each is, by common consent, an honest, able and public-spirited citizen, and the reason the president took them was because he could not find men of such character and attainments among the Republicans of their district. Mr. Roosevelt's action in this matter receives the warmest commendation from the leading newspapers of the region. The New Orleans Times-Democrat, for example, holds that "this determination of Mr. Roosevelt's to subordinate partisanship to patriotism touches the high-water mark of political courage yet recorded in the history of this country," and it adds:

"We believe we reflect the sentiment of Americans of the southern states when we say that this unflinching determination of the president's to conduct his administration in accordance with the primal laws of human living has won the profound and widespread admiration of his countrymen at the south. If Mr. Roosevelt's administration as president should end today, it would, by its southern policy alone, be entitled to the lasting gratitude of all Americans."

This is high praise and is worthy the attention of the people of all sections.

We have heard a great deal in past years in regard to building up the Republican party in the south, but the efforts thus far have accomplished very little in the way of practical results. Possibly this has been because of the policy adopted towards the accomplishment of this purpose. The idea has been too often that it was necessary to build up some sort of a machine in the southern states that could be relied upon to overpower the purposes and political desires of the citizens of those states. Local bosses were given the support of the federal government and were permitted to dictate federal appointments in the belief that they would be able to control the political action of these states through the workings of a political machine.

The general experience has been that such efforts were worse than useless. Occasionally it has happened that shrewd and tricky politicians were thus enabled to gain a temporary control of public affairs and to push themselves into positions of prominence to their own political and financial profit. But invariably there has been a reaction of public sentiment against such methods, and the final outcome has been to create public prejudice against the administration and the party with which these men were allied, and finally to put that party more into the minority than in the beginning.

The real reconstruction of the south began when President Hayes realized that a republican form of government could not be re-established by the power of federal bayonets, and a still more important step was made when the policy was adopted of putting into office in the south men who were thoroughly competent and honest, even if it was not always possible to select them from the political supporters of the administration that happened to be in power at Washington.

President Roosevelt is a most earnest advocate and consistent practicer of the new policy. He realizes that the surest and best way to rally the people of any section to the support of the administration is to give them good government. Looking at the matter even in a purely selfish or narrowly partisan way, this is the only wise and satisfactory method to follow in order to secure permanent results. It is of very little advantage to build up Republican machines in southern states when the only product of those machines consists of delegates to national conventions who are able to influence sometimes the choice of presidential and vice presidential candidates, but are never able to give electoral votes for those candidates and seldom to secure the election of either state or county officers.

No party can possibly live but truly on a permanent basis in any such way as this. The only possible way to get the result is to put the organization of the party in the hands of the people and to see that the federal office-holders are selected primarily as efficient parts of a government that is for the best interests of the people, and only secondarily as members of a party whose policies are conducive to the public welfare and approved by the public intelligence. To attempt to control local politics from outside or to force upon the people an organization that is not their own and policies which they honestly believe to be detrimental to their own interests, is not only poor politics, but is utterly bad government.

These principles have a wider application than to the southern states. They apply to every section of the country where the party in power is not in full control of the local offices and where the public sentiment does not thoroughly approve its policies.

PRINCE HENRY'S VISIT.

EXTENSIVE preparations are being made for the approaching visit of Prince Henry of Prussia. A fleet of war ships will meet the imperial yacht Hohenzollern off the coast and will accompany it to New York harbor where it will be received with appropriate ceremonies. The program for the reception of the distinguished visitor and the itinerary of his trip to this country will be arranged by the German minister at Washington and the state department.

It is said that the trip will be extended to some western cities, but time will not permit the prince to come as far west as Colorado. Probably it is just as well that this is so. Colorado is perfectly well able to entertain princes or even kings, and no American trip can be complete without including the Pike's Peak region. But if Prince Henry should come to Colorado Springs on a day of winter sunshine, should see Pike's Peak and Cripple Creek, and should be impressed with the advantages of this city as set forth by the eloquent representatives of the chamber of commerce and the Mining Stock association, it is quite certain that thereafter this city would have gained a resident, and Germany would have forever lost a prince.

In view of the international complications that might follow such an event it is just as well that the directors of the princely excursion should keep him out of temptation and east of the Missouri river.

GAMBLING IN TELLER COUNTY.

THE GAZETTE never did believe that the business interests of any community were advanced by permitting a large part of the wages earned by the working classes to be dissipated in such an absolutely non-productive occupation as gambling.

But neither do we believe that it is expedient in western communities to enforce strict laws regarding social customs against the prevailing sentiment of a community, even though the violation of those laws involves more or less serious immorality.

It would be obviously unwise for the people of El Paso county to undertake to regulate gambling in the Cripple Creek district, just as it would be unwise for the people of Colorado Springs to undertake to shut gambling out of Colorado City or Manitou. In each case the people of the community directly interested must be their own judges in such matters, and the only permanent reform that can come must be promoted and sustained by those who are directly concerned.

When, however, the people of a community for which we feel a friendly interest resolve for themselves that the time has come to establish a higher moral standard than the one that has hitherto prevailed, then it is not out of place for the people of this city to express their approval of such a course and their hearty congratulations upon such a decision.

In the recent movement for the closing of gambling in Teller county, as well as in a similar movement at Colorado City, the conditions have been such as to warrant the belief that the reform is genuine and permanent. There has been no pressure from the outside. The manifestation of public sentiment has been spontaneous and local. It has been supported by the people of the localities concerned, and it has also in Cripple Creek received the hearty approval and support of the local newspapers. The agitation has derived its strength from the belief that wages were better spent for food and clothing and other things that minister to the welfare and comfort of the working men and their families rather than wasted at the gambling tables; that the surplus was better in the savings bank than in the faro bank, and that the gambling business could not in any sense be considered as a part of the legitimate business interests of the community.

With this view the people of Colorado Springs are in hearty sympathy, and while they have no desire to interfere in the affairs of their neighbors they will always be ready to approve and to encourage the growth of such a sentiment throughout the state.

THE OPENING OF PARLIAMENT.

THE British parliament was opened last Friday by King Edward in person, Queen Alexandra also being present. This was the first regular session since the accession of the present sovereign, the assembly last February having been in the nature of an extra session resulting from the death of Queen Victoria. The king read the speech from the throne, and, according to the press dispatches, "his voice rang out in clear and penetrating tones throughout the speech, which was unusually well written and effective, especially the passages relating to the loyalty of Canada and the other colonies, the progress of the campaign in South Africa, the sugar conference and the canal treaty."

The circumstances of the present meeting of parliament are not entirely satisfactory to the British nation, but they are by no means so gloomy or despondent as many newspaper writers would have us believe. The cost of the war in South Africa is enormous, but the British taxpayer continues to pay the bills, though not without grumbling. British trade has suffered some losses of prestige and is no longer superior to competition, as it once was, but the nation is still in the vanguard both of civilization and of commerce, and is ready to defend its possessions against any other power that may care to despoil them. The speech from the throne was by no means despondent in tone, and the program of legislation is one that belongs to a strong and prosperous nation, rather than to a weak and decadent one.

As for King Edward, though he may be merely a figurehead he is by no means an unattractive one, as the demonstrations of loyalty from all parts of the empire have abundantly shown.

CRISES OF DEMOCRACY.

THE DEMOCRATS in congress have at last found a subject upon which they are ready to express themselves at length. They will take three or four weeks to explain the reasons for objecting to the tariff bill for the Philippines, and incidentally their disapproval of imperialism. It is stated that they do not expect to prevent the passage of the bill, or to delay it unreasonably, but they will put themselves on record for the benefit of themselves and their constituents.

It is fortunate for the country that the Democrats can do no worse than this, and we will not begrudge them the time taken for the purpose. It may seem to be a waste of time to devote several weeks to Democratic speeches from which even the Democrats themselves expect nothing to be accomplished, but we are very fortunate to get off that easily, and the country may congratulate itself on the situation where the only issue of Democracy consists in making lengthy but wholly ineffective speeches in congress.

There was no failure of justice in the case of the Kansas farmer who sued for damages from the neighbors who tickled him for expressing the wish that President McKinley's assassination had finished the job. Mob rule cases in such cases is not to be commenced, but it is easily personable, and no jury will convict those who are engaged in it.

The question is sometimes asked: "Why is it that the shares of The Assurance Savings and Loan Association are always in good demand?" In the first place they never fluctuate in value; second, they always yield a good rate of interest; and, thirdly, their safety and stability are undoubted. The new Public shares, issued in bond form, with semi-annual interest coupons attached, are specially popular. Call for book at 109 E. Kiowa street.

CONVENTION OF LUMBER DEALERS

Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming Association Converes Today and Tomorrow in This City.

The Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming Lumber Dealers association will hold its 10th annual meeting in this city today and tomorrow. The first session will begin at 10 o'clock this morning at the Alamo.

Heretofore the members have always met in Denver, but a committee, submitting to members an opportunity to vote on the location, the decision was almost unanimously in favor of Colorado Springs. The importance of this association to the state is fully recognized, and every effort is being made by the local members to have all the meetings in this city.

Besides the annual election, a number of important subjects are to be discussed. The question of forest fires, and means of protection against their recurrence, will be touched upon. The matter of insurance is another important subject for discussion.

The order of Hoo Hoo, the national social association of lumbermen, will also meet at this time, their banquet being given tonight. The Hoo Hoos are limited in number to 9,999, and besides lumbermen, any man who can appreciate a good joke and tell one, is eligible for membership, provided the other Hoo Hoos do not hoodoo him. Their crest is a rampant black cat, on a white and red back ground.

The program for the two days is as follows:

TUESDAY.

Tuesday morning at 10 a. m., meeting called to order at Alamo hotel. Annual address by President R. W. English of Denver. Report of secretary, H. H. Hemenway; report of treasurer, H. H. Hemenway. Appointments of the regular committees for the year. Recess for lunch. Work resumed at 2 p. m.

Banquet at 6:30 in the private dining room of the Alamo. Theater party for all lumbermen to which members and guests are invited. Apply to the secretary for tickets.

WEDNESDAY.

Meeting at 10 a. m. All members and guests will be taken by the Rapid Transit company for a ride over the entire system, and return for lunch at the Alamo.

At 2 p. m. the convention will be called to order for important business. Reports of committees and discussion. Annual election.

A number of the members of the convention arrived last night, most of them stopping at the Alamo. There are a number of ladies in the party, and the convention promises to have plenty of social enjoyments.

Cheyenne Boulevard Will Be Widened

Through the efforts of W. S. Stratton, Cheyenne boulevard is to be widened and made one of the finest thoroughfares in the west. The county commissioners are giving Mr. Stratton assistance in carrying out his plans.

The new double track line of the Colorado Springs & Suburban Railway company to the canon runs along the boulevard and as soon as the line is in operation it is expected to open up a new and attractive residence section. Some time ago Mr. Stratton had a conference with the county commissioners in reference to the widening of the boulevard. Mr. Stratton was authorized to secure deeds from the property owners along the thoroughfare, transferring enough ground to widen the avenue 20 feet. Mr. Stratton did this and the warranty deeds transferring the land to the county were recorded yesterday in the county clerk's office. The county had to pay nothing for the land.

The present width of the boulevard is 80 feet. The deeds transfer 10 feet on each side of the road. Those who gave this land to the county were Mark L. Dorr, John Wolfe, Mary E. Johnson and the Cheyenne Park Land & Water company.

Ministers Object to the "Cadet" Ball

The Ministerial union discussed the forthcoming cadet ball at its regular meeting yesterday morning. They did not discuss what was going to happen at the ball, but advised the board of education as to what they thought should not happen.

In the first place, the Ministerial union is opposed to the use of the name "High school cadet" in connection with this ball, contending that this makes it an affair of the school and carries with it the tacit approval of the board of education. Another thing the minds of the pupils, instead of being on calculus and the Odes of Horace and Caesar's Commentaries and other affairs of similar depths, are prone to be on dominoes, lace dresses, dance programs and new uniforms with brass buttons—that the minds of the pupils attending the ball or contemplating such a thing, are focused only on the ball for weeks before and after it. Another thing, the Ball has become so popular that those of the High school who do not attend are socially ostracized until the normal attitude of the school is again resumed, and sometimes the pressure is so great that pupils whose home training frowns on dancing are tempted to take it up at such times. These and many similar are the reasons why the Ministerial union passed resolutions urging the attention of the school board to this matter.

Santa Fe Will Place Gates at Four Streets

The representatives of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad have notified the city officials that they are ready to comply with the city ordinance requiring the placing of gates at the street crossings of Colorado Springs and that they will go to work at placing the gates at once. They expect to place them at four streets at once and to have the work done within three weeks.

The streets where the gates are to be placed are Pike's Peak avenue, Platte avenue, Monument street and El Paso street. These four streets are the ones where the traffic across the railroad is heaviest and it is believed that the installation of the gates at these crossings will greatly lessen the danger of accidents by reason of grade crossings.

The fight between the city and the railroad company on this ordinance has been a long and hard one and the members of the council feel that it is only a question of time until they will have the terms of the measure fully complied with.

Krause's Report Is Looked for Saturday

The report of Expert Gustav Krause, who has been examining the books and records of the office of the city treasurer of Colorado Springs for the period of time covered by the incumbency of Moses T. Hale, will make his report to the city council on Saturday. At least this is what the council expects from the latest information they have had from Mr. Krause.

When this report is made the finance committee will be in a position to make a recommendation to the council relative to action on the resignation of Moses T. Hale as treasurer of the city of Colorado Springs and to the election of a successor.

The district court has deferred the setting of the cases of the People vs. Hale and People vs. Smith until such time as the report of Mr. Krause should have been made, and it is expected that this matter will be taken up by the district attorney and that the cases will be disposed of without further great delay.

The city council will meet on Monday evening next to consider the report of the expert.

THE STORY OF THE SOPHOMORE DEFEAT TOLD

College Seniors Tell of the Ice Cream Law Drew Blood.

SOPHS AND FRESHMEN

Saturday's Lower House at Tucker Hall Was the Second Round of a "Go" in Which the Freshies Drew First Blood.

In Sunday's Gazette there was an account of an encounter between members of the freshman and sophomore classes of Colorado college at Tucker hall, in which the president of the freshman class received a solar plexus, which received its strenuousness from the toe of a sophomore's boot.

It has since developed that this chapter, interesting as it was, was the second chapter in the story and that the first was in every way as interesting as any that has come to light or is likely to so long as the trouble is on.

The sophomore classmen who stormed the freshmen's stronghold at Tucker hall at 8 o'clock in the evening, fought with the desperation of men who are hungry. They had just come from supper. This supper, though doubtless a good one, for it is said it took place where good suppers are a certainty, lacked one essential to perfect gratification of the appetite of a sophomore.

It seems that the firemen early in the day went to the catering establishment of Davis & Mueth and ordered ice cream for their party in the evening, instructing the firm to deliver the goods to Tucker hall. In the afternoon a telephone was received instructing the firm to change the delivery of the cream from Tucker hall to a certain house on Dale street, where the sophomores were to have a supper. The person giving the order was told that the delivery would be in accordance with his instructions. Later on someone telephoned to know at what time the ice cream would be delivered and was told that it would be on hand at 6 o'clock in accordance with previous instructions.

At 6 o'clock a big bunch of sturdy sophomores gathered at the Dale street home to dine on freshman ice cream. But in the mean time something had happened down town.

Mr. Mueth, the genial friend of everyone who likes ice cream, received a whiff of the inspiration that gave Sherlock Holmes his reputation and thought to himself: "It's a little strange that the man who knows enough about this party to change the place of delivery of the cream can't know at what time to look for it."

So he telephoned President Kearns of the freshman class and asked him if everything was O. K. Kearns came down to the store and gave a new order.

At 6 o'clock that night Mueth's wagon stopped in front of the Dale street home and an ice cream delivery can was left. It was neatly packed in ice and there was chuckling in sophomore sleeves on every hand.

The delivery man said the cakes would be along on the next wagon.

But alas and alack!

Sing a song of six-pence,
A can full of ice cream
May not be exactly what
Some folks would have it seem.

When the can was opened—
"We're in a terrible fix!"
Was what the luckless sophomores said.—
The can was filled with bricks.

"Joseph D. Kearns," in pretty type
Upon the can, they saw:
"Compliments of the Freshman Tribe.
Ha Ha!!
Haw Haw!!"

WEBB WANTS ESTATE FOR MURDERED MAN

A little more than a year ago, Lerman Webb of this city lost a mare.

Nearly a year passed without information as to what had become of the animal, but one day the owner learned that it had been impounded and sold for $23. The ordinances provide that there shall be a possibility of a rebate of compensation for the owner of an animal sold in this manner provided the demand is filed with the clerk within a year. Webb made a demand at once, but it was not specific, he being uncertain as to some of the points involved.

Three days after the expiration of the year he learned that his formal demand must be made within a year and he proceeded at once to demand $10 from the city.

Adelman Cupel, chairman of the police committee, is looking into the matter and the committee has power to refund the money if it sees fit to recognize his first demand as a legal one.

MRS. W. H. GUMM SUSPECTED SANE

After a second inquiry at the county court Mrs. W. H. Gumm, widow of the late W. H. Gumm, who died recently leaving considerable property, has been declared sane. Last February Mrs. Gumm was declared insane by a jury in the county court, and after her husband died Frank Dunnington was appointed conservator of his estate. Saturday night another jury declared Mrs. Gumm sane and the conservator was ordered by Judge Orr to make his report immediately. He will be discharged as soon as the report is made.

Upon an order issued by Judge Orr two physicians examined Mrs. Gumm as to her mental condition last Saturday and reported to the court Saturday night that she was sane.

NEGOTIATING FOR PEACE

General Belief in The Hague That Overtures Have Been Made.

DENIALS BY BOTH PARTIES

Venezuela Rebels Gain Fight With Government Troops---General Telegraphic News of the World.

By Associated Press.

Brussels, Jan. 19.—Dr. Leyds, the European representative of the Transvaal and the Boer delegates met today at some mysterious rendezvous. Dr. Leyds now denies himself to everybody. It is asserted that Dr. Kuyper, the Dutch premier, on his return to The Hague from London had a conference with Mr. Wolmarens, one of the Boer delegates, who sent another delegate to consult with Mr. Krueger and that another meeting will be held next Monday.

In spite of the Boer denials, a strong feeling exists here that some peace movement is afoot between Great Britain and the Boer delegates, but there is difficulty in arriving at any acceptable basis of terms, Mr. Krueger and Dr. Leyds being reluctant to commit themselves.

It is declared in Boer circles here that a number of Englishmen, supposed to be officials of the British government, arrived at The Hague under assumed names last Saturday and were visited and entertained at dinner by the British minister there.

By Associated Press.

London, Jan. 20.—The Times has received a cablegram from Dr. Kuyper the Dutch premier, in which he declares he has held no conference with the Boer delegates and that he could not induce them to draw up terms of peace as he knew their credentials did not allow them to do so.

VENEZUELAN REBELS WERE VICTORIOUS

By Associated Press.

Willemstad, Island of Curacao, Jan. 19.—via Haytien cable.—The Venezuelan insurgents who have concentrated on the peninsula of Paraguana on the east side of the Gulf of Maracaibo, yesterday inaugurated a movement against the government. The insurgents in the vicinity of Uchiro have also begun operations against President Castro. It is reported here that a serious engagement between the insurgents and the government forces has taken place not far from Barquisimeto, in the state of Lara in which the insurgents were victorious and that there has been fighting between the insurgents and the soldiers of the government in the streets of Maracaibo.

DEADLY EXPLOSION IN SPINNING MILL

By Associated Press.

Barcelona, Jan. 19.—The explosion of the boiler of a spinning mill near Manresa, Saturday, destroyed half the village of Puente De Vilumar and it is estimated 60 persons were killed and 100 injured. Of the injured 30 are not expected to recover. The hospital at Manresa is filled with the injured. Sixteen mutilated bodies of working people have been recovered. These include the manager of the spinning mill, his two sisters and many children. The queen regent has wired her condolences.

The boiler exploded in the evening when the mill hands, many of whom were accompanied by their wives and children were eating supper before commencing their night's work. The buildings of the mill collapsed entirely and the debris was hurled in all directions, destroying other buildings and killing and injuring the people in the vicinity. Owing to the darkness the work of extricating the victims proceeded with great difficulty. During the work of rescue there were heard the groans of the victims whose mutilated limbs were pinned down by the rains. A long line of carts and carriages was engaged in conveying the injured to the hospital five miles distant.

Today the inhabitants went among the ruins, seeking the remains of friends and relatives while the priests in the open air administered the last rites of the church to the dying.

MEXICAN VOLCANO IN STATE OF ERUPTION

By Associated Press.

Mexico City, Jan. 19.—A telegram to the government observatory announces that the volcano of Colima is again active and scientific men connect this fact with the prevalence of seismic phenomena.

Renewed earthquake shocks were reported from various parts of the country this afternoon and a slight tremble of the earth was felt here, Saturday afternoon. Governor Mora of Guerrero, has personally taken charge of the ruined city of Chilpancingo. The populace is camping out guarded by troops and perfect order reigns. The city will have to be thoroughly rebuilt. More bodies continue to be found as the debris is examined by soldiers.

SERVIAN SUCCESSION.

By Associated Press.

Vienna, Jan. 19.—The Belgrade correspondent of the Neue Freie Press declares the question of the succession to the throne of Servia to be ripe for solution, as King Alexander, if guaranteed a sufficient pension, is willing to abdicate in favor of Prince Alexis Kara Georgevitch, a descendant from Kara George, the "Black George" of the Servians and claimant to the throne of Servia. In any case, continues the correspondent, Alexis Kara Georgevitch is likely to be proclaimed heir to the throne, as neither Russia nor Servia objects to this course.

AGRARIAN RIOT.

By Associated Press.

Budapest, Jan. 19.—During an agrarian riot in the village of Alsolices, in the county of Maros-Torda, Transylvania, a mob attacked the government officials and the gendarmes were compelled to fire on them. Eleven of the mob were killed and 12 wounded, four fatally.

TUNG FUH SIANG EXECUTED.

By Associated Press.

London, Jan. 20.—The Shang-hai correspondent of the Standard says that according to trustworthy reports received from Peking, General Tung Fuh Siang, the notorious anti-foreigner, whose execution was recently ordered by the dowager empress, was executed January 15 at the yamen of the governor of Shansi in Kan-su province.

RIVER STEAMER WAS WRECKED YEARS AGO

By Associated Press.

Mobile, Ala., Jan. 19.—The river steamer Frank S. Stone was wrecked by a floating log in Mobile river last night 50 miles above Mobile and lies in 15 feet of water in middle channel. No lives were lost though the steamer sank in 15 minutes. The Stone carried 25 passengers, a crew of 25 and a large general cargo. Most of the passengers had retired, but the officers gave the alarm quickly and passengers and crew were transferred to a barge the steamer was towing and which was then cast adrift. The steamer Mary came in sight soon afterward, took the barge in tow and brought the sunken boat's passengers and crew to Mobile this morning. The Stone was valued at $30,000, fully insured.

The value of the cargo is not known.

BRUSH WRITES ANOTHER LETTER TO SPALDING

By Associated Press.

Indianapolis, Jan. 19.—John T. Brush filed another letter into the Spalding camp today. He writes to A. G. Spalding under date of January 17, in which questions and charges of Mr. Spalding are met. He outlines his plan for the government of the game and defends his compromise with Andrew Freedman.

He discusses the outcome of the famous Democratic club dinner and of his accomplishment Mr. Brush states: "I did not carry the olive branch to Mr. Freedman for he met me with one before I had gone half the distance."

Concerning the Redbank conference and the trust scheme that was hatched that day, Mr. Brush says a form of consolidation was discussed, not however, in the sense of a trust as the term is commonly understood but a consolidation or community of interests that would preserve the individuality of the club and at the same time permit the board of control to carry out any measure necessary for the good of the entire organization over the protest of any one or two clubs.

Concerning the platform of Mr. Spalding Mr. Brush says:

"With regard to the platform of which you speak, I have nothing for it except praise and commendation.

Mr. Brush closes with the following: "I regret your ill-timed entree to the league and I deplore the interference in its deliberations in your behalf. The net results are a house divider against itself and a successful foe waiting to reap the advantage that follows."

PROMINENT PRESBYTERIAN MINISTER DEAD

By Associated Press.

Portland, Ore., Jan. 19.—Rev. Dr. H. K. Hines died early this morning, aged 74. Dr. Hines came to Oregon 50 years ago from Herkimer county, New York, and during that time he was connected with the affairs of the Methodist Episcopal church in the northwest. As presiding elder of the state of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, he became widely known throughout the northwest. Dr. Hines was president of the territorial council of Washington and a member of the legislature during the session of 1867-68. He was a delegate to the National Republican convention in Cincinnati in 1876.

WANTS RECEIVER FOR BOSTON AND MONTANA CO.

By Associated Press.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 19.—The suit to secure an injunction and the appointment of a receiver of the property and affairs of the Boston and Montana company in Montana, the plaintiff being John MacGinnis and the defendants the Boston and Montana company and the Amalgamated company, came up in Judge Clancey's court yesterday upon a motion in behalf of defendants to set aside the temporary injunction that was granted in that court on November 19 last.

In presenting the motion to set aside the injunction, Attorney Evans called attention to the fact that a similar action was pending in the United States court and that Judge Knowles had made an order enjoining plaintiff MacGinnis from further prosecution of the suit in the district court.

The motion to set aside the injunction was taken under advisement by the court.

DAMAGE BY FIRE IN NEW YORK CITY

By Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 19.—Fire broke out tonight in the building in Broadway occupied by Blumenthal and Stoner manufacturers of artificial flowers and feathers; Roche, Croll & Co., manufacturers of neckties and Samuel Nolcoff, cloaks and suits. Fifteen of Nolcoff's employes at work on the fifth floor were rescued with difficulty and several firemen were overcome. The loss is put at $75,000.

FAITHLESS SERVANT.

By Associated Press.

Cincinnati, Jan. 19.—W. N. Whittaker, a prominent attorney and his wife went visiting today and left their only child, a five-year-old boy with Annie Ledge, who had been in the family only a short time. When they returned the child was found dead, hanging to a gas pipe in the cellar and the servant unconscious from asphyxiation.

The indications are that the woman had trouble with the little boy and hanged him early in the day and she inhaled gas just previous to the return of the Whittakers. She will die.

COLORED MURDERESS WANTED RAGTIME

By Associated Press.

Montgomery, W. Va., Jan. 19.—William Slaughter and W. P. Johnson, colored musicians, were shot and killed and Powel Calloway, white, was mortally wounded last night by Lillian Williams at a dance at Morris creek in the mining regions. The Williams woman who had entered the hall recently under the influence of liquor ordered the musicians to play ragtime music and when they did not respond whipped out a revolver from under her wrap and began firing. Slaughter and Johnson were killed almost instantly. Slaughter received a bullet in the mouth and Johnson one in the left breast. A third bullet struck Calloway, who was an onlooker, in the back. Physicians pronounce his wound fatal. The murderess escaped lynching only by the timely arrival of officers.

GENERAL STRIKE OF PAPER MAKERS THREATENED

By Associated Press.

Kaukauna, Wis., Jan. 19.—A general strike was ordered today at a joint meeting of the Appleton, Kaukauna and Neenah lodges of the United Brotherhood of Paper Makers which will result, in less than three weeks, in closing 25 mills in the state of Wisconsin, throwing out of employment 3,000 laborers and cutting off over 370 tons per day from the paper market unless the demands of the union for shorter hours are granted. Further than this the movement is soon to spread through every paper making district in the northwest.

The manufacturers will be given one or two weeks time in which to make a reply and nothing but an immediate and unconditional granting of the demands, it is authoritatively stated, can prevent the big walk-out.

FIFE ARRESTED FOR RICHARDSON MURDER

By Associated Press.

St. Joseph, Mo., Jan. 19.—Stewart Fife was brought back today from North Yakima, Washington, where he was arrested two weeks ago, charged with the murder of Frank W. Richardson at Savannah, a year ago, for which Mrs. Addie Richardson, the widow, will be tried at Plattsburg, this week. The prisoner was visited at the station by his parents and lawyers, who accompanied him to Savannah later. An effort has been made to have Fife released in bond and it is said that Judge Burns refused bond. Fife was placed in a cell at Savannah.

BRUSH SCHLEY AND "BOOMERS"

By Associated Press.

Savannah, Ga., Jan. 19.—Admiral Schley's hunting party returned afternoon from St. Catherine's island. The party secured a large bag of game. Admiral Schley is credited with having brought down one deer. It was his first deer and a member of the party said that the admiral was more excited when he pulled the trigger than when off Santiago. The weather during the hunt was superb.

Admiral and Mrs. Schley will leave this city for Washington tomorrow. The admiral said tonight that he had not authorized the statement sent out from Chicago that he would discuss his case before the Hamilton club of that city. Beyond this he refused to talk.

DIAMOND DEALER WAS MURDERED

By Associated Press.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Bela G. Brown, aged 65, a prominent dealer in diamonds and manufacturer of jewelry was found murdered in his store here tonight. His legs were tied together and he was gagged with a long red neck scarf. At the back of the head was a hole extending into the brain and there were several gashes in the scalp, evidently made by a hammer which was found near the body smeared with blood and white hair from the head of the victim. The murdered man's head was covered with blood and a pool of it had formed on the top of a small chest of drawers over which the head lay. All about were evidences of a determined struggle, but a thorough search failed to discover any positive clew as to the identity of the murderer or murderers.

From the position of the body in front of a safe the conclusion was reached by the police that the murderers had placed Mr. Brown before the safe which was locked and which contained thousands of dollars worth of diamonds and jewelry, and tried to force him to work the combination for them. His right hand was covered with blood, indicating that he had raised it to his head when he was struck and tried to ward off the other blows that followed. The murderers secured nothing of value except perhaps a diamond stud that Mr. Brown wore and which is missing.

UNITED MINE WORKERS ANNUAL CONVENTION

By Associated Press.

Indianapolis, Jan. 19.—Fully 500 delegates to the annual convention of the United Mine Workers of America which opens tomorrow, arrived today and it is estimated that 500 others will be here.

Immediately after the convention is organized President Mitchel will announce the regular committees, among the most important being that on wage scale. Owing to the prosperous year the operators have enjoyed, the miners will demand an advance. Many favor asking for an increase of 10 per cent., but the exact figure will have to be determined by the committee and then passed on by the delegates in convention. At a joint conference between miners and operators which came to follow the convention the scale fixed by the miners will be demanded.

LOCKOUT NO. 2 AT CLOTHING WORKERS

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Five hundred custom clothing workers, the majority of them women, have been locked out and it is said the number will be largely increased in the near future as the result of an organized movement to stamp out unionism among the garment workers in Chicago.

The Chicago Federation of Labor has taken up the fight of the clothing workers and today declared a boycott against the concerns responsible for the lockout.

SHOT THE WRONG MAN.

By Associated Press.

Shawnee, Okla., Jan. 19.—R. B. Hunt of Huntsville, Mo., was shot and killed here today by John Sevis, who mistook him for an enemy. Hunt went to Sevis' home and demanded admittance. Sevis had experienced trouble Saturday with other persons and supposing that they had returned to open the quarrel, refused to admit Hunt and shot through the closed door. Hunt dropped dead on the steps.

Madrid, Jan. 19.—Alexandro Polo y Leon, Spanish ambassador to the Vatican, has resigned.

CANADIAN PORTS FOR RECIPROCITY TREATY

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—"The free and unrestricted interchange of natural products between the United States and Canada would rapidly develop a commerce in these countries whose stimulating impulse would reach every branch of business. Trade would flow in its natural channels instead of being diverted by repressive tariffs and great commercial benefits would result to all but an insignificant few."

This was the conclusion expressed today by John Charlton, member of the Canadian parliament during a discussion of the present tariff laws between this country and Canada. Mr. Charlton advocates reciprocity as a measure that would be of great benefit for both the United States and Canada. He is here now doing "missionary work," he says, in favor of his doctrine. He says he finds sentiment in the United States changing rapidly to his views.

MISSOURI AND UNCLE SAM.

St. Louis a Big Contributor to the Revenue of the United States.

St. Louis, Jan. 18.—If St. Louis had given a four months note for the $5,000,000 which the federal government appropriated for the Louisiana Purchase exposition and had been permitted to pay it with the internal revenue receipts, only a very small part of it would have required renewal. The total collections in the first district of Missouri, comprising the eastern half of the state, for 1901 were $14,496,581.84. The revenues from this district, which were 26,586,750.19 in 1896, grew to $15,677,548.96 in 1900. They dropped back a little in 1901, owing to the abolishment of certain war taxes. In the six years ending with 1901 the total collections were $69,723,798.02, or approximately four and two-thirds times the amount paid for the million square miles in the Louisiana purchase a century ago. It is almost 14 times the amount appropriated by the federal government for the exposition. The city of St. Louis pays about one-third of the entire revenue received by the United States treasury from tobacco. Whatever will increase the revenues in proper proportion to expenditures is in theory the federal government, with due regard for treasury receipts in coming years, is making an investment that will yield constantly increasing revenues, when it gives aid to the enterprise which St. Louis has in hand.

SQUABBLE OVER PRISONER.

By Associated Press.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 19.—The man under arrest at Gretna was not identified today as Kerb, the alleged fugitive New York jewelry thief. Mr. Thebaut and Detective Kelly are satisfied the right man is in jail, but were confronted by a squabble over the reward and decided not to go over to the prison across the river, until the matter is settled.

New York, Jan. 19.—Captain Titus tonight received the following telegram from Detective Sergeant Kelly who went to New Orleans accompanied by Paul G. Thebaud, to ascertain if the robber held by the New Orleans police is Edward Kerns who robbed Mr. Thebaud's house of jewels valued at $50,000.

"Sheriff wants reward; won't show man. Have Governor Odell wire governor of Louisiana to advise Sheriff Marrero as to his duties. Man under arrest is Kerns."

SISTER OF CHARITY DEAD.

By Associated Press.

Vancouver, Wash., Jan. 19.—Mother Joseph, founder of the Sisters of Charity in the Northwest, died today at the convent in this city aged 80 years. Mother Joseph entered the novitiate of the Sisters of Charity at Montreal, Canada, in 1843. She came west as a missionary, in 1856.

EVERETT-MOORE SYNDICATE.

By Associated Press.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 19.—The bankers' committee in charge of the Everett-Moore syndicate will hold a meeting tomorrow. The primary object of the committee is to preserve intact the equities of those in the syndicate and to prevent any depreciation in the values of the securities. In order to accomplish this plan in regard to all the interests of the syndicate it is now extremely probable that a number of the properties will be sold. That is all the syndicate's interests in the properties sold will be disposed of.

RAILROAD AGREEMENT.

By Associated Press.

Findlay, O., Jan. 19.—An agreement has practically been made between the Lake Erie & Western, and the Chicago & Alton for traffic arrangements between them at Bloomington, Ills., by which the Lake Erie & Western will run solid trains through from Cleveland to Kansas City.

An arrangement is also made whereby the Northwestern will avoid Chicago on its through freight. The Northwestern is building a spur from Nelson, Ill., to Peoria, a distance of 35 miles and eastern freight will be transferred over this spur to Peoria to the Lake Erie & Western and brought east.

KILLED BY FARM HAND.

By Associated Press.

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 19.—Samson Seaverns, 83 years old, living on the road from Rutland to Princeton, was killed tonight at his home by Lem Hapgood, his farm hand. Hapgood attacked Seaverns in bed with an axe, shot him with a revolver and later confessed to the farmer's daughter. The assailant escaped.

MEDICAL DIRECTOR.

Dr. L. S. Lackey, a St. Louis Physician, Chosen for the Important Post by World's Fair People.

St. Louis, Jan. 18.—Dr. L. H. Lackey of this city has been appointed medical director for the Louisiana Purchase exposition. Dr. Lackey was born at Carmichaels, Pa., in 1844. He is son of a physician. He attended the Cleveland Medical college and the Jefferson Medical college of Philadelphia, graduating in 1868. He also took a course in the Bellevue Hospital Medical college, graduating in 1872, coming thence to St. Louis. He has been prominent in medicine and in the affairs of this city ever since. The importance of the post of medical director of a great exposition may be understood from the fact that during the construction period of the World's fair at Chicago 5,910 cases were treated, 11,602 during the fair and 619 after the close of the exposition.

CANADA'S GOLD YIELD.

Remarkable Increase in Output of the Dominion.

Compared with the United States, the Dominion of Canada is still in its infancy as a producer of the hidden wealth of nature's treasure stores. But it is a lusty infancy, and the facts relating to Canada's advance in this direction are of deep interest to Americans. The Dominion statistician, George Johnston, has just completed an examination into the comparative development of the mineral output of both countries. Canada's yield last year was only one-seventeenth of that of the United States, but, based on population, it represented a value of $12.06 per capita, compared with $14.03 in the United States.

Canada's increase per capita in the decennial period—1891 to 1901—was a fraction short of double that of the United States, being $8.14, against $4.11 for the United States. Ten years ago Canada's mineral yield would have to be multiplied by 84 to bring it up to that of the United States, whereas last year the figure had been cut down to 17. At this rate, the dominion statistician remarks, it will not take Canada long to pass the United States.

A notable fact gathered from Mr. Johnson's compilation is that 47 per cent. of the entire metal production of the United States last year came from the furnaces which melted the iron ores, while four per cent. only was the figure in Canada. Gold represents the largest part of the increase in Canada. In 1891 the gold produced in the dominion was only $1,500,000, whereas last year it was $27,908,000.

The metallic products of Canada chiefly comprise gold, silver, lead, nickel, copper, zinc and pig iron; while in the United States, besides these, there are produced quicksilver, antimony, platinum and aluminum, which do not appear in the Canada returns. Antimony is found in one province of Canada, Nova Scotia, and was at one time produced to a great extent, but a lawsuit stopped operations. Aluminum, although not yet produced in Canada, exists in deposits to the extent of millions of tons.

Since Canada began producing gold it has added $136,500,000 worth to the world's store of the metal. Of this, over $52,000,000 came from the Canadian Yukon gold fields, in other parts of Canada the yield of gold last year was $25,840,000, an increase of $4,880,000 over 1901. In Canada the output of copper is trifling compared with that of the United States, only amounting to a little over $5,000,000 last year, compared with $98,000,000 in the United States.—(Indianapolis News.

SEX WALK AND HANDSHAKE.

Woman's Changed Way of Greeting and of Society Carriage.

Woman changes, not only form to suit the season, but her manner as well. Artists marvel at the sudden new curves and hollows that she develops apparently at will, and philosophers ask how such things can be accomplished. This winter is witnessing many decided changes in walk and in the various fads of dress, but above all in the manner of greeting between women friends. Time was not long ago when women kissed when they met. On all occasions—at weddings, funerals and receptions—the kiss was alike in evidence.

But it grew to be a back number, and then women who had never shaken hands in former days began to grasp each other's hands in most cordial masculine fashion. Then some one elevated the handshake, and it mounted higher and higher, and moved from right to left in pump-handle style. Then there was a time when women thrust their faces toward each other, as though they were trying to see the exact depth of the complexion and hair tinting the friend was using. This season makes an entirely new departure. Those who like to be up to date in such things are practicing the new handshake, as low as the waistline, with the arm and body drawn back, with a suggestion of reserve in the attitude.

It is the very newest things in greetings, and those slow people who have only just grown accustomed to the very high, rotary handshake will have to unlearn the old fashion and cultivate a modification of the old. Exhibited each day at the recent horse show were these new fads of greeting, and they occasioned considerable comment among people not within the circle of those who always do the right thing. The feminine walk of the season has changed about absolutely, from the athletic swinging gait of the summer, with its startling manner of elevating the skirts from the ground, to a most rigid poise of the body from the hips up to the head. There is a decided droop forward from the waist, and the elbows are held well out from the sides with military stiffness — the arms, describing two curves, joining in the muff, which is held very low in front, at the full curved length of the arms, instead of the angular elbow bend, as formerly. The muff, by the way, is held by the fingers, instead of encasing the hands.—(New York Sun.

When Kipling was Kain—a Baby Son.

"He kept himself to himself more and more as he grew older, and one day—I shall never forget it—he began to see out of his eyes. Up till then they had been dull and stupid—just like a young baby's eyes. But that day—I saw them first under my couch—they were grown-up Lion's eyes—soft and blazing at the same time, without a word in them, eyes that seemed to look right through you, and out over Africa. Though he had been born in captivity, like Alice, his mammy, and Indiana, his father, and though the only home he had ever known was on the slopes of the big mountain where Africa ended, we never once saw him look up the hill when he lay down to do his serious thinking. He always faced square to the north, to the great open plains and the ragged, jagged mountains beyond them—looking up and into the big, sunny, dry Africa that had once belonged to his people."—(Rudyard Kipling's description of his baby lion, in the January Ladies' Home Journal.

THE GAZETTE'S SPECIAL WASHINGTON LETTER

(Special Correspondence.)

Washington, Jan. 16.—The question of precedence comes up every winter to disturb the officials and amuse Washingtonians. Not long ago a hostess who had just taken up her residence in Washington and was entertaining her first party of officials folk realized after the guests had assembled that she was wholly ignorant of the intricacies of social precedents as governed by official rank. There was but one way out of it. The hostess boldly took the bull by the horns.

"I haven't the faintest idea how you ought to go into dinner," she announced, "but those of you who wish anything to eat had better get in some way or the things will be spoiled."

Fortunately all the guests possessed the saving sense of humor. They flocked into the dining room, took such seats as were most convenient, and the dinner was a success. One of the social tangles growing out of the law regarding the succession to the presidency is found in the discussion which has been in progress in recent years as to the relative positions of the president pro tempore of the United States senate and the speaker of the house of representatives. When at the first dinner at the White house following the death of Vice President Hobart, President McKinley gave the place of honor to Senator Frye, the president pro tempore of the senate. Speaker Henderson of the house of representatives was highly displeased and he afterwards declined to attend any dinner unless assured in advance that he would have the place of honor. The tension between General Miles and General Corbin was very noticeable as was also the question of precedence existing between the wives of Admiral Dewey and General Miles. The matter was finally settled as near as any of these social controversies can be settled by the decision that inasmuch as the war department was established prior to the navy department the general commanding the army was entitled to precedence over the admiral of the navy at official functions. When the men are entertained as individuals Admiral Dewey being of superior rank takes precedence. Not infrequently public men are made to suffer the consequence of social quarrels precipitated by the women of their families. From such a source sprang the bitter fight which Governor Tanner of Illinois made against the election of Senator Cullom. The governor's animosity was caused by a slight placed upon his wife by Mrs. Cullom who was reported to have declared that Mrs. Tanner as the daughter of a horse trader and auctioneer was socially impossible. For years there was a bitterness between Mrs. Merriam whose husband is now director of the census and Mrs. Davis, widow of Senator Cushman K. Davis of Minnesota. When Senator Davis gave his support to Mr. Merriam's candidacy for the office he now holds a truce was patched up between the two men and the reconciliation was supposed to extend to the ladies of the households.

One of the most notable of all social tangles was precipitated by the refusal of Lord Pauncefote, the British ambassador and dean of the diplomatic corps to call upon the vice president. He argued that he was not only the official representative of his government, but also the personal representative of his sovereign, and as such was entitled to rank directly after the president. Vice President Stevenson happened to be the bone of contention. He was a good-natured man and allowed the ambassador to have his way, but when Vice President Hobart assumed the office he stood out for his rights. The matter was referred to the British foreign office which held that the vice president was to be regarded as the heir to the presidency and thus of the same rank as a crown prince, consequently Lord Pauncefote received an intimation from his own government that he had better call upon the vice president.

Last Wednesday being the first cabinet day of the season showed beyond question the passing of this unique and once interesting feature of Washington life. To the several hostesses who find the burden of their position too arduous and a small clique of denationalized Americans who have formed their ideas of social requirements from a nomadic existence in European capitals the abolition of the cabinet reception will be hailed with delight, as this will eventually lead to the severing of all social relations between the administration circle and the public. The falling off in the number of visitors is not as sometimes said, in consequence of the elimination of the tea table, but rather on account of the continuous complaint of the cabinet women themselves that they have too many visitors, while on the subject of the alleged abuse of the old time hospitality it may be well to state on the authority of the leading hostess of the last Cleveland administration that the weekly expense of a Wednesday afternoon tea table was $10.

Miss Paulding, niece of the Hon. Chauncey Depew, who has set up housekeeping for herself with her mother in a house given her by her uncle, intends to make of her colonial home a rendezvous for the most select of the modish world and to hold informal salons, a feature of Washington entertaining which will be hailed with undisguised delight.

An agricultural department clerk in going over a lot of old reports yesterday found one which proved to be particularly interesting. It was a report on the investigation of the grasses in the arid districts of Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado," issued in 1888, and prepared by Dr. George Vasey, botanist. The following, taken from a New York paper, appears in the report:

"Theodore Roosevelt has come from the west with a springy step and bronzed countenance, and the general air of buoyancy which is the result of contact with the free air of the Dakota prairies. He says that the days of excessive profits in the cattle business are over because there are too many people in the business, and the cattlemen have to pay the penalty of crowding cattle more thickly on the prairies than the grass will stand. Mr. Roosevelt thinks that the present system of cattle grazing will eventually cease and the business take a different form in different localities. The land that is fitted for agriculture will be taken up by the farmers and the grazing lands will gradually be fenced in and the great ranches be broken up to make place for smaller ranches."

Col. W. F. Cody and Gen. George T. Beck of Wyoming have been Washington visitors for the past week, ostensibly to get appropriations for military roads from the colonel's ranch to the Yellowstone park, but really to take in the charity ball, the president's receptions and other mid-winter functions of the capital. Colonel Cody was one of the guests at the big charity ball given last evening at the New Willards and attracted as much attention as Miss Roosevelt, who was there for a short time. The colonel is an indefatigable boomer of Wyoming. He talks Wyoming at all times and upon all occasions.

A notable group at the charity ball was formed by friends of Senator Kearns. It included Mrs. Kearns of St. Louis, Mrs. Perry Heath and Mrs. S. A. E. Holmes of Salt Lake City, Mrs. Payne, wife of the new postmaster general, and her niece, Miss Louise Van Dyke Jones. Mrs. Holmes of Salt Lake wore a conspicuously elegant Worth gown in Dresden brocaded in light shades combined with heavy lace, necklace of pearls and diamonds, with a large diamond star pendant.

In the distribution of the old desks for 25 years in use in the house of representatives, Congressman John J. Jenkins of Wisconsin, brother of J. C. Jenkins of Cheyenne, has drawn a prize, namely, desk No. 99, which was used by the late President McKinley during his long term of service in the house of representatives. When it was decided to refurnish the hall of the house it was determined to put the desks up at auction, permitting each member to retain his own desk and chair. Mr. Jenkins did not reserve his desk. An employe of the house looking into the history of the unreserved desks, discovered that Mr. Jenkins was occupying the place in which President McKinley sat when he was a member of congress. He went to Mr. Jenkins and said that he would be glad to have the authority to buy it at the price established when the sale should occur. "You are welcome to my option on it," replied Mr. Jenkins, "I would not pay the freight on the desk to Wisconsin for it." Then the employe told Mr. Jenkins the story of the desk and released him from his contract to part with it. Mr. Jenkins has the desk now. Congressman Gordon has picked up a couple of hundred dollars' worth of these old relics including the table upon which President McKinley wrote the tariff bill and they have all been sent to his home in St. Mary's in Ohio. It is Mr. Gordon's purpose to fit up his office with this furniture exclusively.

Representative Lacey of Iowa, chairman of the house public lands committee, has had a talk with the president and with Attorney-General Knox relative to desired legislation for protection of forest reserves and the wild game they contain. The president, who, as it is well known, is desirous of protecting the wild game of the west, has encouraged Mr. Lacey in his intention, and Attorney-General Knox has given him a written opinion on the subject which will be of interest in the west, where the question of game preservation is a live one. The attorney-general says:

"As to the public lands within a state the government has all the rights of an individual proprietor, supplemented with the power to make and enforce its own laws for the assertion of these rights and for the disposal and full and complete management, control and protection of its lands.

"I am decidedly of the opinion that congress may forbid and punish the killing of game on forest reserves, no matter that the slayer is lawfully there and is not a trespasser. And I have no hesitation in expressing my opinion that congress has ample power to forbid and punish any and all kinds of trespass upon or injury to the forest reserves, including the trespass of entering upon or using them for the killing, capture or pursuit of game."

The attorney-general suggests that legislation might be enacted providing for arrest without warrant in cases of "hot pursuit" of poachers by rangers, deputy marshals and other peace officers, and that it should be made an offense to be on any public reserve with the intent to kill or capture any game.

The gains which the United States is making in supplying Mexico with the articles which it imports from foreign countries are clearly called to the attention of English manufacturers and exporters by the British consul at the City of Mexico, who, in his report on the trade of Mexico for the year 1900, says:

"Fifty years ago, and even less, the greater part of the trade of Mexico was carried on by British houses, the heads of many of them having retired on a fair little fortune. As late as 1872-73 the British trade with Mexico was in a fairly flourishing condition, but from the date of the opening of the Mexican Central and Mexican National railways, the American manufacturers have yearly increased their trade with this country.

"Today the British trade is confined to a few agencies (there being no important commercial establishment), who by means of samples and catalogues undertake the execution of orders. Some of these agents are persons who, being unacquainted with the country or with the customs, find it very difficult to do business with the people. There are, however, a few who are active and by accommodating themselves to their surroundings can get good orders for the firms they represent. The example of these few might serve as an incentive to others.

"Some of the large houses in Manchester, Birmingham and other centers often employ commercial travelers who make periodical visits to this country, and who can always count on their usual customers for orders. Other houses send out representatives, frequently foreigners, who in many cases are unacquainted with the country, language, the people, and their customs, and after a short stay during which they are unable to get any order they return home disgusted.

"Mexico is a market very different to ordinary large towns, as on account of its cosmopolitan nature and the few foreigners resident here it does not afford the facilities and comforts of European towns of the same size, and then, also, on account of certain conditions peculiar to its inhabitants, the demand for articles of long standing whose utility is well known is greater than for modern inventions that take a long time to conquer the ideas of the people.

"If the British manufacturer or trader wishes to open or increase his trade with this country it is imperative for him to adopt other methods, and first of all consult the wishes of his customers by not forcing upon them articles that in his opinion might appear suitable, but are of no use in this market. As can be seen from the foregoing remarks some of the same openings still exist, but in a smaller degree, as American merchants are pushing their trade very considerably, either by establishing branch offices in this city, or else by means of companies which have sufficient capital at their disposal and, by being on the spot can purchase properties and form companies to work them.

"Another reason why the American capitalist is readier to invest in Mexico is that enterprising firms of St. Louis, Mo., and Dallas, Tex., issue monthly pamphlets in Spanish and English containing short notices about the principal towns of Mexico, and giving information about new enterprises and the establishment of new factories, as well as other information about the country.

MINING NOTES AROUND TOWN

The Doctor-Jack Pot company is still having trouble with bad air in the lower workings, and unless the men can get into the drift in a short time now, a blower will have to be put in. It has been nearly a month that work has been delayed, and there is little prospect of an improvement in the air. The men can on some days get in almost to the breast, while on others they are unable to get in but a short distance before the foulness of the air extinguishes the candles, and under such circumstances the management is unwilling that the slightest risk shall be taken, involving the life and health of the miners.

LESSEE FITCH CUTS NEW VEIN IN ACACIA PROPERTY.

At the depth of 185 feet Clarence A. Fitch who is operating a lease on the Burns Claim of the Acacia Gold Mining company has recently unexpectedly cut an entirely new vein in the property. This new ore body was encountered while a crossent was being driven, and the indications promise that it will be an important strike for the lessee.

The vein matter that has been encountered is a fine grained phonolite and sylvanite and some free gold can be seen from specimens. The width varies from two feet to three feet. The operations in this level have not as yet been extended sufficiently to thoroughly explore the nature of the shoot, but if it continues for some distance it will mean much to the lessees for they will be able to make a good clean up in the working of the lease.

RECENT LEASES GRANTED ON RAMONA AND ANACONDA.

The south 300 feet of the Ramona on Bull hill has been cut up into 300-foot blocks and yesterday the south block was leased to Patrick King, the middle block to McGinnis & Leddy and the north block to Pat Mines. All will commence work in the morning. The leases run for a period of two years with a graded royalty starting at 20 per cent. On the south block, King, who has one to start on, agrees to sink the shaft an additional 150 feet during the life of the lease. This block has produced to date about $40,000 net.

Clark and Fisson have secured a two years' lease on a block of the Anaconda ground, and yesterday started drifting 50 feet below the tunnel level on what is known as the main Anaconda dike. They are already getting assays that run about pay.

SOME RICH ORE BROUGHT FROM HYDE PARK DISTRICT.

During the past week some very promising ore as samples was brought in from the Hyde Park district and exhibited in Cripple Creek and this caused considerable comment. The Hyde Park section is situated in Four Mile creek and is about six miles south and west of Cripple Creek.

It is reported assays have been made from some of the samples and the reports run high into the hundreds of dollars to the ton. Many prospectors have gone to the district and are busy locating claims.

To the Cripple Creek Mine Owners—Tunnels for Cripple Creek.

(By J. Parker Whitney.)

While tunnels in many respects are ill-matured and invaluable, it may be considered that the subject should receive at this time most particular attention from the owners of mines at Cripple Creek. This may be concluded from the view that the ore-producing mines of that district descend to an indefinite extent. That as depth is attained, although some mines owing to local surroundings, are comparatively dry, a large amount of water will be encountered.

Although living streams may not be found, the entire body of the district at a depth is most likely saturated with water, representing in a totality an immense amount.

It is well enough to look ahead and not regret at a later day that the subject had not received executive action, when it may be found that in addition the large sums which are now being expended for machinery and pumping, will have to be largely increased.

The subject presents itself most conspicuously in comparison with the cost of drainage tunnels, which, owing to the altitude of the district, can be driven at comparatively moderate sums to drain from 1,000, 2,000 and 3,000 feet below the surface, say at the Elkton mine.

I will suggest for the principal companies to most earnestly consider this subject without delay by being represented at a meeting to be held for the purpose.

It is not entirely reasonable for one company or one individual to undertake the business of running tunnels for all the mines at Cripple Creek which may be benefited by the tunnels.

If such companies would unite upon a reasonable basis, the pro rata expense of the work would be light, while all would gain very largely in a following reduction of expense, besides infusing a large degree of confidence among the stockholders of the companies interested.

Roughly considering the subject, and from information received without personally having means at present command to verify, it may be assumed as an approximation that two miles or less of tunnel driving would free the water from the tenth level of the Elkton mine, or 1,000 feet deep below the surface. In this advantage the united mines in the vicinity could participate by connecting with the tunnel.

Considering the primary expense of the machinery required by the Elkton company to equip itself for keeping its tenth level free from water at $50,000 and $60,000 a year for power expended, it would appear that this company alone could well afford single-handed to pay $250,000 for a three-year' use of a two-mile long tunnel which would drain its tenth level, as its outlay and power expense would amount in that time, with interest, at 6 per cent., to the same sum.

The information is given out that a tunnel of five miles in length can drain Cripple Creek to a depth of 3,000 feet. If this is correct, the sooner it is commenced, the better, for it will take some time to complete it.

Even if the mines should not reach the 3,000-foot level by the time a tunnel reached there (which is not likely), it will be only a question of time when they will, and besides a tunnel 2,000 feet below the 1,000-foot level could be availed of by the largest size possible drilled hole and pipe, which with the head of water on, could drain a very large amount of water.

As a financial speculation, a company sufficiently equipped with capital could now most successfully undertake the business of running the 10,000 or 12,000-foot tunnel to the tenth level of the Elkton mine, for if it were available at the present time the company could well afford to pay a sum of $5,000 per month for its use. This alone would give 10 per cent. on a tunnel valuation of $600,000, which would cost less than half of that sum, and when the advantages to be gained by the neighboring mines from being dewatered to a depth of 1,000 feet is considered, the palpable advantages of the tunnel is clearly indicated.

The great trouble which arises in tunnel companies is the want of funds to carry out the original plans. Unless the capital is actually put up, there is generally a falling off in interest during the time required to complete the work. Changes of mind, as will be of circumstances, occur, and the management effective at the start, proves abortive and the tunnel is abandoned. Good management bears a percentage of 25 per cent. toward the success of a good business to have the responsible companies to be benefited join in the business of driving the tunnel, or tunnels, and for such companies there will be great benefits at a small expense.

Tunnels are availed of for drainage in most advanced mining regions when they are applicable. The Ernst August tunnel in Saxony is 11 miles in length, without which the low-grade ores reached could not be worked to any profit.

The Sutro tunnel to the Comstock mines in Nevada for drainage is over four miles in length, and a large number of similar cases could be cited if necessary. Should the most important gold mining district for its size in the world be neglected in this respect when the geographical conditions are as favorable as here presented?

Are the managers of the companies there represented acquitting themselves of their responsibilities to the stockholders of their companies by not taking up the subject when they are unitedly so interested?

It is costing the Cripple Creek owners over $200,000 a month for dewatering. They should join and own the drainage tunnels. Will they combine and act?

FORTUNATE LESSEE JOHNSON TO WORK CHANCE CLAIM.

Carl Johnson, who made a fortune out of his lease on the Half Moon, owned by the Matoa company, a few years ago, will commence active work in a few days on his new lease on the Chance, owned by the Anchoria-Leland company and situated close to the Half Moon. Some ore has been shipped from this property by former lessees, and there is a shaft 150 feet deep, which will be sunk immediately to the 200-foot point, before drifts and crosscuts are run. A new plant of machinery has just been hauled to the ground, and the work of putting it in place was started today. Johnson has been very successful in his leasing operations, especially on Gold hill, and he is confident that he will find a good shoot on the Chance.

CONSOLIDATED MINES PROPERTY

Lessees Plan Extensive Development on Grotto and Accident Claims—Shipments From Big Producers on West Slope of Gold Hill.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek Jan. 20.—A. T. Holman and F. L. Siegel connected with the Vindicator company and A. C. Adams of Boston have commenced work on their lease on the Grotto and Accident properties of the Consolidated Mines company on Bull hill. The property embraces valuable land adjoining the Wild Horse on the south and contains the extension of leads that have yielded an enormous production from adjoining properties. The work that has been done so far consists merely of prospecting and as there are six or eight shafts at different points on the property, the lessees will decide in this way through which shaft they wish to work. One of the shafts on the property is down to a depth of 350 feet and very high assays are obtainable from any one of them, although so far there is no paying ore body of any kind in sight. A plant of machinery has been secured from another property and will be removed to the Bull hill claims as soon as it is definitely decided where it shall be installed. The lease runs for a period of over two years with 20 per cent. royalties, with a work stipulation of 75 shifts per month. The terms of the contract are very advantageous and some little trouble has been experienced recently on account of the transfer of the property to the Woods Investment company. As the lessees are very well fixed financially, the entire property will be extensively developed by them and as soon as active work is started it will be a question of only a short time until the lease is shipping steadily.

A number of disinterested parties were invited to make an inspection of the Bedford company's property on Cow mountain just east of Cameron today. A short time ago a good strike was reported in the tunnel workings of this company, which is controlled by Massachusetts parties. Although a good deal of sampling and assaying has been done the 12-foot vein has not been developed to such an extent that the importance of the strike can be determined. Mill runs have been had indicating pay values and it is the impression of those who have visited the property that the mine will undoubtedly make a big low grade proposition. Prospecting is the work that is being carried on at present and the property is to be more fully developed in the future. Although there is no showing of values to the naked eye the rock will without doubt carry low grade values. It is also a question of some import to the company to find out the proper method of treatment of the vein matter.

Rankin & Ragsdale, leasing the Gold King fraction of the Savage company on Gold hill, report an improved showing in the bottom of the winze some 30 feet below the 300-foot level. For the past few days the ore body showed signs of pinching out with depth, but this morning opened up as good values as were had at the outset of the work. The value of the screenings had depreciated materially, but at the present depth the lessees are in an excellent grade of ore again. The recent shipments made by them brought values of $30, $45 and $125 to the ton according to the grade of the mineral.

Lessees Best and Hansen, operating the main workings of the Zoe company's property on Beacon hill, are averaging about a carload of ore weekly. The grade of the mineral is about $30 per ton. The ore body in the drift at the 475-foot depth is not holding out as well as it was when the lessees first cut into it, but is paying operating expenses and some profit. A crossent is to be started shortly to cut the main Zoe vein which has not been developed at the present depth.

Shipments are sent out with encouraging regularity from the three big producers on the west slope of Gold hill, the Moon Anchor, Midget and Conundrum. It seems that these three workings are on the same vein systems to a certain extent and each of the properties is producing an excellent grade of ore. Ore teams are kept busy handling the output and the tonnage that is going out from these three properties is increasing right along. The Moon Anchor prospects are brighter than they have been for some time and the mine is producing about 250 tons per month. The bulk of the production is coming from the lower levels and returns from 1½ to 2½ ounces in gold to the ton.

The Chicago Leasing company, operating the main workings of the Mountain Beauty property on Bull hill, with ore in three levels, is getting in shape for a regular output. Shipments have already been started, 40 tons having been sent out last week, and a good rate of production will be maintained. The company is breaking two feet of $40 ore at the 525-foot level. Judge John Gibbons of the circuit court bench of the state of Illinois, owns the principal interest in the company.

GOLD COIN WANTED AT $1.50

A Pipe Story Announces 20,000 Shares for Sale at This Price, But Omits to Say Where They Can Be Obtained.

An absurd story appeared in a Denver paper yesterday to the effect that a block of 20,000 shares of Gold Coin was offered at $1.50 per share; a statement which is absurd on the face of it and which is calculated to create an erroneous impression of what is one of the greatest mines in Cripple Creek. The stock is very closely held and there are few transactions in the shares; but the market has been between $1 and $5 for some time.

It was learned yesterday from an official source that there is no block of 20,000 shares out; and also that the officers of the company have for a long time stood ready to pay a much higher price for any stock which was brought to them, although they have not announced themselves as a market for Gold Coin.

As for the mine, it is learned on excellent authority, that the showing, especially in the bottom level was never better, nor the prospects for the future any brighter. On 1901, $1,000,000 was produced from the property; and present indications point to at least this output for the present year. The ore bodies are developing wonderfully; and the development work is far in advance of the production.

UNION PAYS ADDITIONAL $25,000

From Money Left in the Treasury at the Time the Delmonico Claim Was Leased—Thorough Work Being Done on That Claim.

Announcement has just been made, through a bulletin posted on the board of the mining exchange, that the Union company will pay a two-cent dividend on the 29th inst. to the stockholders whose names appeared on the company's books on the 27th inst. The dividend is made payable on the outstanding stock of 1,250,000 shares, and amounts to $25,000. The Union company has been a liberal distributor of dividends at various irregular periods. The latest one was paid in August of last year; also for $25,000 paid from the remaining proceeds of the sale of the Orpha May group to W. S. Stratton in 1900. When the present dividend is paid the company will have distributed a total of $445,244.37.

The present dividend, as explained by an officer of the Union company yesterday, is made from a sum of money remaining in the treasury which was not needed by the company. After the sale two years ago the company still owned the Delmonico claim; and this has been worked since then to a slight extent. Recently, however, it was leased to the Little Alice company which is now engaged in very thorough development work. The claim has produced a good amount of ore, and is considered to be a very promising piece of ground.

When the lease was given the company had the sum of $30,000 in the treasury, and the officers believed that the stockholders were entitled to the dividend. It is probable that the leasing company will pay enough royalties to provide whatever incidental expenses the company is called upon to meet, and which the remaining $5,000 is not capable of caring for.

GOLDEN DALE BOND WAS RATIFIED

At a Special Meeting of the Stockholders Which Was Held in Cheyenne Yesterday—Good Development Is a Condition.

A special stockholders meeting of the Golden Dale company was held yesterday at noon in Cheyenne, Wyoming, and out of a capitalization of 3,000,000 shares there were represented at the meeting, either in person or by proxy 2,600,000 shares.

The meeting was called for the purpose of voting on the proposition of giving a $75,000 bond on the company's Alsa R. claim to Mr. F. H. Maynard of Utica, N. Y. The directors of the company had leased the claim to Mr. Maynard for a term of three years; and had also given the bond, subject to the approval of the stockholders.

After a discussion of the merits of the action, the stockholders unanimously ratified the action of the directors; and Mr. Maynard will have the bond executed in his favor at once.

Mr. Maynard has held a lease on the Moose mine for some time. He is a large stockholder in the Moose company, and decided to try on his own responsibility to open the ore which the company failed to do. He has been conducting extensive work in the 1,000-foot level; and in order to make sure of the ore shoot, no matter which way it might extend, he has secured leases and bonds on adjoining territory, including the Alsa R. and the Kentucky Belle.

His leases on both these properties call for development work, liberal royalties, and for the sinking of an individual shaft in case ore is opened up. Mr. Maynard has confidence in the locality, and is willing to invest a large amount of money in developing the ground.

ONE-HALF MILE OIL TERRITORY

.. PROVEN UP BY ..

THE BOULDER OIL CO.

INCORPORATED UNDER THE LAWS OF WYOMING

Capital Issue . . . . . 600,000 Shares
In Treasury . . . . . 240,000 Shares

Two 420 Acres of Oil Lands in Boulder County known as the McKenzie Ranch. Our Second Well came in Friday at a depth of 2500 feet. At this time we have over 500 feet of oil in this well and we are in oil sand over 200 feet.

We Are Distributing Oil at $2.50 per Barrel. 3 of the 5 oil men claim we have a producer of over 100 bbls. every 24 hours. A Pump, Pipe and a 500 bbl. Tank are ordered; also another plant of machinery for Well No. 3. The company has parties under contract to begin putting down 3 additional wells on our large territory within 60 days. Our Company was the first to have oil and we are the first to get it. The Directors believe we will have a dividend paying property in a short time.

Please Note that the Boulder Oil Stock OFFERS STOCK FOR SALE and it is an unusual opportunity for Colorado Springs people to purchase good stock at right price.—If other companies with only 40 acres of ground without oil and only prospects are selling stock at 10 cents and upwards, what is our stock worth?—A word to the wise is sufficient.

THE COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, Jan. 20.—The mining stock market today was in an unusually active condition, and prices, on the whole, were considerably better than at the close of last week. It was expected that the extreme low level which Portland reached on Saturday would call in a world of buying orders, and it was evident when the call opened this morning that there were buyers without number who would pay $2.10 a share for this great stock. It was difficult to get them at $2.30, however, at which price only 500 shares changed hands; and the balance of the trading was done at $2.40, at which price the stock was offered at the close. The advance in Elkton was one of the splendid events of the day. The first sale was at $1.17½ and the close was $1.26. The trading was brilliant and the recovery in the stock did more to infuse new life and confidence in the market than anything else. There was a slump in El Paso which, under heavy selling, declined from 56 to 54¾, but this is attributed to collateral stock which has been forced on the market. This explanation, however, is commonly made and does not always hold true. Findley sold up to 12, Golden Cycle was firm at 65 and Doctor was stationary at 41. Consolidated was rather heavy at 3½, Vindicator sold ex-dividend at $1.16 and Work went at 9. Golden Fleece was a good trader, selling at 59. Trading in the prospects stocks was more general than it has been for a long time; and prices, while they were inclined to show some fractional loss, were on the whole not especially weak. Leon was conspicuous by selling well and advancing from 36 to 38 per 1,000 shares.

EASTERN MARKETS

By Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 20.—Last week's depressing factors in the stock market were fortifies today by the engagement of $356,000 in gold for export. This was practically in line of the development in the stock market which continued in its rule of dullness and professionalism. Prices are generally lower on the day though not as low as they were during the session.

NO FAITH CURE

ACCEPT STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS

They Cure Stomach Troubles and Indigestion, Anyway, Whether You Have Faith in Them or Not.

All physicians agree that the element of faith has a great deal to do in the cure of disease.

Firm belief and confidence in a family physician or the same confidence and faith in a patent medicine have produced remarkable cures in all ages.

This is especially true in nervous troubles, and no field offers so public a harvest for the quack and charlatan as the diseases arising from a weak or run-down nervous system.

Nevertheless, the most common of all diseases, indigestion, and stomach troubles, which in turn cause nervous diseases, heart troubles, consumption and loss of flesh, requires something besides faith to cure.

Mere faith will not digest your food for you, will not give you an appetite, will not increase your flesh and strengthen your nerves and heart, but Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do these things because they are composed of the elements of digestion; they contain the ethers, acids and pepsones necessary to the digestion and assimilation of all wholesome food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 1 oz. if placed in a jar or bottle in water heated to 98 degrees, and they will do it much more effectively when taken into the stomach after meals, whether you have faith that they will or not.

They invigorate the stomach, make pure blood and strong nerves in the only way that nature can do it, and that is from plenty of wholesome food, well digested. It is not what we eat, but what we digest that does us good.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by druggists at 50 cents for full-sized package.

CANDY DYSPEPSIA.

Serious Results Sometimes Follow Its Excessive Use.

Common soda is all right in its place, and indispensable in the kitchen and for cooking and washing purposes, but it was never intended for a medicine, and people who use it as such will some day regret it.

We refer to the common use of soda to relieve heartburn or sour stomach, a habit which thousands of people practice almost daily, and one which is fraught with danger; moreover, the soda only gives temporary relief and in the end the stomach trouble gets worse and worse.

The soda acts as a mechanical irritant to the walls of the stomach and bowels, and cases are on record where it accumulated in the intestines, causing death by inflammation or peritonitis.

Dr. Harlanson recommends as the safest and surest cure for sour stomach (acid dyspepsia) an excellent preparation sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. These tablets are large, sugar-coated lozenges, very pleasant to taste, and contain the natural acids, pepsones, and digestive elements essential to good digestion, and when taken after meals they digest the food perfectly and promptly before it has had time to ferment, sour and poison the blood and nervous system.

Dr. Wherth states that he invariably uses Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in all cases of stomach derangements, and finds them a certain cure, not only for your stomach, but, by promptly digesting the food, they create a healthy appetite, increase flesh and strengthen the action of the heart and liver. They are not a cathartic, but intended only for stomach diseases and weakness, and will be found reliable in any stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents per package.

EASY THE WAY

TO PURIFY THE BLOOD, INCREASE FLESH AND STRENGTH AND TO CURE INDIGESTION.

SECRET PATENT MEDICINE WILL NOT DO IT.

There Is a Simpler and Better Way.

There is only one way to purify the blood, only one way to increase flesh, and that is through the stomach and digestive organs. Why? Because the stomach and digestive organs make blood and flesh, bone, nerves and sinew. Did you ever see a person blessed with a healthy, vigorous stomach and digestion who had impure blood, muddy, sallow complexion, or who had weak nerves, sleepless nights and the thousand and one pains and aches arising from poor digestion? Say, because perfect digestion converts the food eaten into pure blood, strong nerves, and muscles, and all the flesh a person needs to have for health, symmetry and beauty.

Every person knows whether or not his or her digestion is what it should be, but every person does not know what is the safest and best way to secure and preserve a healthy condition of the digestive organs. It is not done by the use of any wonderful secret patent medicine, but by the use of certain harmless digestive principles, which, taken at meals, will digest the food anyway, regardless of the weak condition of the stomach.

Dr. Brooks recommends a combination of vegetable essences, fruit salts, pure aseptic pepsin, and Golden Seal, prepared in convenient tablet form, and sold by druggists everywhere under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

These pleasant tasting tablets are to be dissolved in the mouth after each meal, and, mingling in the food in the stomach, digest it perfectly. There is nothing wonderful about this. Any physician or chemist knows that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do this because repeatedly tested and proved, and thousands of cured dyspeptics have found it to be true also.

Dr. Harlanson states that these tablets increase flesh because they digest flesh-forming food like eggs, meat, and ordinary everyday food; for the same reason they purify the blood and strengthen weak nerves. In no other way can it be done, because flesh, blood and nerves are obtained from the food we eat.

Dr. Jenkison once stated that he believed a 50-cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets would give more real benefit than $50 worth of ordinary doctor's fees.

These tablets may be found at any drug store.

HEART DISEASE.

SOME FACTS REGARDING THE RAPID INCREASE OF HEART TROUBLES.

Do Not Be Alarmed, but Look for the Cause.

Heart troubles, at least among Americans, are certainly increasing, and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, or poor digestion.

Real, organic heart disease is incurable, but not one case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic.

The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by branches of the same great nerves, the sympathetic and pneumogastric.

In another way also the heart is affected by that form of poor digestion which causes gas and fermentation from half-digested food; there is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest, caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action; hence arise palpitation and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, makes it thin and watery, which irritates and weakens the heart.

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can best be done by the regular use after meals of some safe, pleasant and effective digestive preparation, like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which may be found at most drug stores, and which contain valuable, harmless digestive elements in a pleasant, convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular, persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal time will cure any form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

ARE YOU THIN?

Do You Want to Become Fleshy?

A FEW SIMPLE RULES.

Fresh and Not Fat Is What Is Needed.

What thin people want is flesh, and not fat. To be symmetrical and properly proportioned every person should have a certain amount of flesh. To be plump does not necessarily mean to be fat. Fat is undesirable, it clogs and retards the action of every muscle, interferes with the healthy action of the heart and lungs, and when excessive predisposes to fatty degeneration of vital organs; to say nothing of the discomfort, more or less, resulting from excessive adipose tissue.

Common sense would suggest that if one wishes to become fleshy and plump, the thing most needed would be flesh-forming foods; in other words, albuminous foods, like eggs, beef, oatmeal, etc. The kinds of food that make flesh are the foods that form the greater part of our daily bill of fare.

Now, the only reason so many people remain thin is because their stomachs do not properly and completely digest and assimilate the flesh-forming beefsteak and eggs we eat every day.

There are thousands of such people, and they are really dyspeptic, although they may not suffer any particular pain or inconvenience from their stomachs. If such persons would take with their meals, some preparation like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the food would be quickly digested, and the proper degree of plumpness very soon secured, because these tablets are prepared exactly for that purpose. They will digest every variety of flesh-forming food, which is the only reason why they so quickly build up and strengthen thin, dyspeptic men and women.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure dyspepsia and every form of indigestion on this common sense plan, that they digest the food promptly, giving strength to every nerve and organ of the body, while at the same time the stomach has a chance to rest and recover its natural vigor. Nothing further is required to cure any stomach trouble, or to make thin, dyspeptic people strong, plump and well.

This excellent preparation is manufactured by F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., and sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package.

FREE TO MEN ONLY.

A Valuable Little Book Sent Free for the Asking.

Medical books are not always interesting reading, especially to people enjoying good health, but as a matter of fact, scarcely one person in 10 is perfectly healthy, and even with such, sooner or later sickness must come.

It is also a well-established truth that nine-tenths of all disease originate with a breaking down of the digestion, a weak stomach weakens and impoverishes the system, making it easy for disease to gain a foothold.

Nobody need fear consumption, kidney disease, liver trouble or a weak heart and nervous system as long as the digestion is good and the stomach able to assimilate plenty of wholesome food.

Stomach weakness shows itself in a score of ways, and this little book describes the symptoms and causes and points the way to cure so simple that any one can understand and apply.

Thousands have some form of stomach trouble and do not know it. They ascribe the headache, the languor, nervousness, insomnia, palpitation, constipation, and similar symptoms to some other cause than the true one. Get your digestion on the right track and the heart trouble, lung trouble, liver disease, or nervous debility will rapidly disappear.

This little book treats entirely on the cause and removal of indigestion and its accompanying annoyances.

It describes the symptoms of Acid Dyspepsia, Nervous Dyspepsia, Slow Dyspepsia, Atonic Dyspepsia, Catarrh of the Stomach, and all afflictions of the digestive organs in plain language, easily understood, and the cause removed.

It gives valuable suggestions as to diet, and contains a table giving length of time required to digest various articles of food, something every person with weak digestion should know.

No price is asked, but simply send your name and address, plainly written on postal card, to F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., requesting a little book on Stomach Diseases, and it will be sent promptly by return mail.

PIGS vs. DYSPEPSIA

They do not have Dyspepsia because the stomach of a pig secretes six times as much pepsin and twice as much hydrochloric acid as the stomach of a man.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS

have cured thousands of men and women of Dyspepsia and Indigestion because they supply what every weak stomach lacks: Hydrochloric and lactic acids, pure aseptic pepsin, ginger and Golden Seal to increase the secretion of gastric juices. They cure Nervous Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Gas and Fermentation, Biliousness, Constipation or any form of weak digestion.

SALARY LIMIT ESTABLISHED

Western League Owners Adopt Rule for Next Year.

LEAGUE GROWS STRONGER

Thos. Burns Returns and Says Indianapolis Is Likely to Come In—Locals Expect to Be Placed This Week.

Thomas H. Burns, owner of the Colorado Springs franchise in the Western Baseball league, returned to this city yesterday noon after an absence of several weeks, during which he attended a meeting in Kansas City of owners of franchises in the league and other conferences of western baseball managers. Acording to Mr. Burns the following cities will probably comprise the circuit for the Western league during the coming season:

Colorado Springs,
Denver,
Kansas City,
Indianapolis,
Milwaukee,
St. Joseph,
Des Moines,
Omaha.

After attending the Kansas City meeting Mr. Burns and others went to Indianapolis, where they held a conference with Mr. W. H. Watkins, owner of the Western association franchise in Indianapolis. Mr Burns said last night that Mr. Watkins will decide some time this week whether he will desert Hickey's association and join forces with the Western league. Mr. Burns said last night that he thought that Watkins will decide to have his team in the Western league, and that his decision will prove a quietus by Hickey's dreams of a rival league. Already the Western league has secured Milwaukee, and with the sympathies of the big western leagues the Western should put a finish to Hickey's aspirations.

Mr. Burns will devote this week to the question of a location for the new baseball grounds in Colorado Springs. These grounds will be located somewhere along the new street railway to the cañons. Plans for the grand stand and bleachers have been prepared by W. H. Roby and the work of constructing them will be started in April. Captain Everett will be here then to superintend the work of laying out the diamond. The diamond will be of hard earth and the field will be sown in grass. The accommodations for spectators will be ample and comfortable.

There will be no salary limit for teams in the Western league this year, Mr. Burns said last night. The owners of the franchises in the different towns will be privileged to pay what they please for players. This will result in higher salaries and better players. "The Western league will be much stronger this year than last," said Mr. Burns. "The players will have to play faster ball, and the standard will be high."

The season of the league will open on May 1. All the Colorado Springs players will report early in April for practice and are expected to be in first class condition by the time the season opens. The schedule will not be arranged until the circuit is finally determined.

The next meeting of the magnates will take place in Denver some time about the middle of February. A number of prominent baseball men from the big eastern cities will be in Denver as guests of the Westerners at that time. All the delegates and other visitors will come to Colorado Springs as the guests of Mr. Burns.

While on his trip Mr. Burns went to Milwaukee and inspected the grounds of the team in that city. Mr. Burns said last night that these grounds are among the finest in the country. Their location is fine and the Western league has no fear of any serious competition from Hickey or his associates. Mr. Burns also talked to Hart and Johnson, the Chicago magnates, and says their sympathies are with the Western league in its fight against the dying association organized by Hickey and Tebeau.

NOTICE TO BASEBALL PLAYERS

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—President Ban Johnson of the American Baseball league, stated today that no truce in the baseball war was declared at his recent conference with A. G. Spalding.

"I met Mr. Spalding," said President Johnson, "simply as a matter of courtesy to him. It was nothing more than an exchange of our personal views. As soon as the National league settles its differences and comes to us as a united body we will be able to work with them for peace in baseball.

"I do not know that this proposed conference at Buffalo for the consideration of the playing rules will ever be held. This meeting, however, if it should take place, would not signify any combination or alliance with any faction."

RIGHT FIELDER SIGNED.

By Associated Press.

Kansas City, Jan. 19.—Manager Nichols of the Kansas City Western League baseball team today announced that he has signed Irving Waterson, a right fielder, who plays with Washington last year.

KID PARKER WILL FIGHT.

By Associated Press.

Denver, Jan. 19.—Kid Parker, the well-known lightweight, who has been in retirement for more than a year because of ill health, has been matched to fight Billy Armstrong, the Californian, before the club offering the best inducements. The agreement is to weigh in at 133 pounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the fight to occur within two weeks' time. The kid says he is in the pink of condition.

AMALGAMATED ASSOCIATION.

By Associated Press.

Youngstown, Ohio, Jan. 19.—"The Amalgamated association went into the last strike with the United States Steel corporation with $72,000 in the treasury and spent $200,000 in the fight. It will go into the next convention with $700,000 in the treasury," said President T. J. Shaffer of that organization in addressing a mass meeting of the men today.

On the question of hours of labor Mr. Shaffer said that he would rather see a six-hour day with four turns adopted than to have an increase made in the wages of the men.

LOCKWOOD OF STEEL TRUST.

By Associated Press.

Vienna, Jan. 19.—The Neue Freie Presse publishes an interview with Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation in which he declares that neither Austria, Germany nor France has anything to fear from American steel competition, although, owing to natural conditions, Europe would never be able to produce steel as cheaply as could the United States. Mr. Schwab predicted the gradual decline of the British and the rapid expansion of the American iron trade.

"MOUNTAIN VIEW" ON THE WATER ORDINANCE

To the Editor of the Gazette:

Dear Sir:—Doubtless if President Roosevelt had been properly enlightened as to the virtues of the water meter, in building up the arid west, he would have embodied his conclusions under the head of an "Irrigation Paradox," in his recent message. For at the period when the arid lands of the west have for the first time taken rank in popular consideration with the rivers and harbors of the east; when the irrigation problem has seeped its way into the brains of our statesmen and percolates through the president's message—Colorado Springs has under consideration the restriction of her water supply. The crystallization of the long-discussed and indefinitely amended new water ordinance of Colorado Springs goes before the city council tomorrow (Monday) evening and then and at the two subsequent readings before it is voted upon—it behooves every man and woman in Colorado Springs to watch it with lynx-eyed vigilance, lest some provision creeps in which will impinge upon the future growth of our fair city. It is not now as radical a measure as some of its well-wishers had hoped, for the stern and determined opposition which it evoked made the withdrawal of certain provisions a necessity—but it is an entering wedge, and, driven, as the writer believes, in the wrong direction.

It is more than unfortunate that there is an element in Colorado Springs which is utterly incapable of appreciating her rare, even unique, value as the invalid and the tourist. These are the people who wish to regulate the city by the inch and plummet of Podunk or Pittsburg. They are always ploughed to a prime-and-prism, toy-railroad-in-a-canon policy, and the goose that laid the golden eggs would have short shift of life with them. It is absolutely impossible to convince them that Colorado Springs cannot be measured by ordinary standards, nor governed by ordinary considerations. God be it reverently spoken set this place apart in the high sanctuary of the hills, with all that could revivify the body, delight the eye and inspire the soul, and shed upon it the benediction of perpetual sunshine. When you have reduced it to a Pittsburg, you have one Pittsburg more but the world has lost its Colorado Springs.

Commercial and manufacturing interests here must be subordinate to keeping this favored spot the world's Mecca for invalids and tourists. And the justification of this restriction lies in the fact of Colorado Springs' pre-eminent beauty and health influence. Nowhere in a similar area are such advantages, such natural wealth, such scenic beauties to be found. We hear this so often that it seems a twice-told tale to us—it is true, but true, and not until our citizens make their watchword "Colorado Springs for health and beauty," will the city attain the full measure of her growth and possibilities.

"If I forget thee, oh Jerusalem"—I deserve to have a water meter on my lawn!

From the day when the founders of Colorado Springs set out 7,000 cottonwoods at a cost of $15,000 and expended $50,000 on irrigation ditches in an infant settlement—till General Palmer bought Austin Bluffs as a noble gift to the city of 28,000 inhabitants—there has been no water meter policy among those wise and far-see ng founders who yet builded better than they knew.

I see some of the penny wise and pound foolish people who want to get a larger water tax from Colorado college—would it not be well to apply the thumb-screw to Dixon park? Possibly the water privileges of the muddy Monument might yield a rental when a park is laid out, along its banks. A water meter is an excellent thing in its place; in a big water power plant; in a laundry; in city houses in a block where water is in demand only for utilitarian and cleansing purposes. But in the residence portion of Colorado Springs, on land that has been redeemed from the great American desert, they should no be tolerated for a moment.

I fear there are one or two people in the south end, who see the north end lawns greener than they really are, because of the tincture of that color which is popularly attributed to jealousy—and there are also people in the extreme north who hope that a salutary check upon their southern neighbors will give them sufficient pressure to secure an ample flow for faucet and hydrant. Now this is not at all a case of "pull devil, pull tailor." The interests of the north and south of Colorado Springs are interdependent, and instead of setting spies and checks upon one another's use of water, both should unite to secure an adequate supply for the city as it now is, and one also commensurate with its future growth. This is no an impossible thing to do.

The hardships of a water meter system will, as is not uncommon now in such agitations and legislation—fall most heavily upon the small consumer. The rich will have their lawns, come out coute, but meters would have a tendency to narrow and obliterate the cheerful garden borders and small green plats which brighten the humbler homes of our city. Now the amount of water tax is an inevitable and unchangeable fact, but consumption of water being possible on a sliding scale—how many an anxious mother would feel it a duty to save the price of a sweet pea bed for Johnny's winter shoes, or the head of the household would forego the lettuce and corn he has heretofore raised with pride, in [illegible] will? A block of modern tenements in one of our large cities was supplied with bath tubs, for the use of which a small special tax was charged. The owner of the property told the writer it was only in rare instances that the special tax was paid and water connection made for the bath tub. These were ordinarily used for sleeping places and in one or two instances had been converted into coal bins by enterprising tenants. I question not if the tub tax had been included in the rent, that the blessing next to godliness would have been enjoyed by a larger proportion of the lessees.

In President D. B. Fairley's comprehensive review of the history of the city's water works, published in the Sunday papers, I should like to emphasize the following paragraph:

"It should be clearly understood that three-fourths of the five and one-half cubic feet flow per second we get from West Beaver creek, through Strickler tunnel—to which supply about two and one-half cubic feet flow per second additional, has been secured through development of the tunnel—is now absolutely running to waste for the lack of storage facilities."

Such being the case, it would be nothing short of an impertinence to put a water meter into the residence of any taxpayer in Colorado Springs.

The local situation is certainly bad enough; humiliating enough. I do not know of any thing so belittling as the drama of "Catch Who Catch Can," with its attendant lines and subterfuges which is enacted here every summer—unless it be the performance of the New York custom house. Present conditions of the water supply force it upon the community, but let us hope the day will come when the city fathers will reward those who take pride in the development of leaf and bloom and fruit, instead of doing them! Certainly, Horticultural and Village Improvement societies were never so heavily handicapped as here.

Suppose a pailful of water goes to waste now and then that as the city wastes it in the Strickler tunnel, but as an over-zealous caretaker may, on some certain day, what of it? It is 10,000 times better that the city should do without the extra tax money than that one lawn should lapse into desert, or one noble tree die from lack of nourishment.

Water redeemed Colorado Springs from the desert. It is the elixir which gives perpetual youth to these sandy plains. It should be as nearly as possible free like sunshine and air. Plenty of water, plenty of sunshine and the lines come true:

"There is the splendor that was Grecian,
There is the glory that was Rome,
But we know a brighter splendor
And we find it here at home.
All the Alps and Himalayas
Ali old Neptune's foaming brine,
Can't surpass the wealth of beauty
Of this state of yours and mine."

"Mountain View."

SYRIAN WAS ROBBED.

By Associated Press.

Kirksville, Mo., Jan. 19.—I. Solomon, a Syrian living at Keokuk, Ia., was held up last night and robbed of a money belt containing $8,500. Solomon had sold out his business in Keokuk and was looking for a location here. Two fellow countrymen have been arrested charged with the robbery. Solomon says one of them held him while the other cut the belt from his waist. The money has not been recovered.

Colorado Springs People Are Talking About It on Every Corner.

It is sometimes an easy matter to fool the public, but you can't keep it up very long. They are sure to find you out, and every time a man is fooled another skeptic is made. Skepticism is allowable when reading in a home newspaper about some incident occurring in San Francisco or Iowa, but the circumstances are entirely different when it refers to someone right here at home, friends and neighbors, people you know, whom you can see and with whom you talk it over. This is the kind of evidence at the back of Doan's Kidney Pills—home statements by home people, and the astonishing local work they have been doing has caused more talk among our citizens than the doings of any other modern wonder. Read the following:

Mrs. H. C. Hughes, corner of Cascade and Vermijo streets, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills helped me amazingly and I know they are a reliable remedy for the kidneys. I caught a cold, which settled in the small of my back and in the kidneys and caused me so much pain I was quite miserable. Reading an advertisement in our paper about Doan's Kidney Pills, I sent my son to Jones & Wellington's drug store, 109 N. Tejon street, for a box. The treatment relieved me almost at once and up to date there has been no recurrence of the symptoms."

For Sale — A Beautiful Tyler Place.

A new home of exquisite style and taste. Finest location in Colorado Springs, being 100 feet higher than Pike's Peak ave. Italian Renaissance architecture with a mountain view unsurpassed in the state. Largely decorated in oil; with or without handsome St. Louis furniture, mostly new and fine. All of which we will sell at 50 cents on the dollar with the house. I must leave this altitude for one or two years. A grand opportunity Awaits some one as the property is absolutely for sale at much less than it is worth.

Apply to Captain Tyler, 232 North Tejon street, or to any first class real estate firm.

ALSO two new stone front, 7-room houses. Royal in points of design, style and finish; will sell for less than the houses are worth; say nothing about the lots, as I must leave this city for a time at least. Apply to Captain Tyler, 232 North Tejon street, or to any first class real estate firm.
